HEART ATTACK

Paul Butler Dies, Ex-Chairman Of Demo Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paul M. Butler, former chairman of the Democratic National Committe, died today of a heart attack.

He was 56 years old.

Butler died at George Washington Hospital where he had been under treatment since Dec. 5.

The hospital said he had been admitted at that time for observation because of "complications arising from a number of medical problems." He died at 8:20 a.m. after the heart attack.

PAUL M. BUTLER
Death at 56

His wife and other members of his family were at the hospital.

Butler had been a center of controversy throughout most of his tenure as chairman of the national committee.

He was elected to the national committee from Indiana in 1952 and became chairman in January, 1955.

Because of his no-compromise declarations on Civil Rights, he was a frequent target for Southern Democrats who said a party chairman should run the organization and not make policy.

Butler became even more embroiled in controversy when he set up the Democratic Advisory Council after his party's defeat in the 1956 presidential election. That now defunct body was created to speak for the party between its national conventions.

Democratic congressional though its members did include former President Harry Truman, Adlai E. Stevenson and other prominent Democrats. Despite the coolness between the council and Democrats in Congress, it spoke often and

Population Of County Hits 161,289

Marin will enter the new year with a population of 161,289, according to estimates released today by the Marin Industrial Development Foundation.

This is a gain of 14,469, or 9.9 per cent, since the federal census was taken in April, 1960. The information is contained in two reports prepared by the foundation and available for distribution.

Of the county's incorporated cities, San Rafael showed the greatest gain, adding 4,267 or 20.8 per cent. Most of this growth occurred in the Terra Linda and East San Rafael areas.

Novato added a healthy 3,026 or 16.9 per cent, helped considerably by the new housing at Hamilton Air Force Base. Corte Madera, in the third spot, added 13.1 percent, or 782.

The second report lists the changes in population and occupied dwelling units since the 1960 census in each of the county's 33 census tracts.

Greatest growth was experienced in the Terra Linda-Los Ranchitos area, which gained 2,324, or 38 per cent in the 19-month period. It was followed closely by Hamilton Air Force Base and Rafael Village, which jumped 37.5 per cent, due largely to occupancy of the

Six Hurt In Marin Accidents

Six persons were injured in three auto accidents in Marin yesterday and last night.

Dr. Lovell Langstroth, 81, of San Francisco, was cited by the California Highway Patrol for driving on the wrong side of the road after his small station wagon collided headon last night on the Boardwalk in Tiburon with a small pickup truck driven by Susan Philippa Gaines, 18, of 1645 Mar West, Tiburon.

Langstroth was treated at Marin General Hospital for head and nose cuts and bruises. A passenger in his car, Mrs. Margaret Barkan, 71, of San Francisco, was treated for cuts and bruises.

Miss Gaines suffered a bruised jaw. Her mother, Mrs. Frances R. Gaines, 43, suffered a bruised right arm.

Robert Parr, 34, of 22 Southern Heights, San Rafael, suffered chin and face cuts last night when his 1962 two-door sedan struck a utility pole along Highway 101 near Monte Mar Drive in Sausalito. He told officers he had been working long hours and must have fallen asleep while returning from

Preview Of Coming Elections In Marin

By RANDALL GOULD

Ten elected Marin County officials, including two supervisors, will be chosen at the polls next June.

Probably two and certainly one of the present incumbents will not be candidates to succeed themselves. But the others are expected to be in there fighting.

Indications are that fights will be in order for all the jobs with perhaps one exception.

What's more, there is a good prospect of pay increases to make almost all the jobs more appetizing.

Here are the jobs for which votes will fly; District attorney, auditor-controller, county clerk, sheriff, assessor, tax collector-treasurer, recorder, coroner-public administrator, and supervisorships for the First and Fifth Districts centering on San Rafael and Novato respectively.

Next Tuesday may see two happenings of importance in this picture:

1. The supervisors may finally vote raises for six of these officials to maintain existing differentials with the salary of the district attorney, set by the state legislature at $16,650 a year.

2. County Clerk George S. Jones may fulfill his promise to reveal, after the first of the year, whether at the age of 75 he wants to make one more try to stay in work he meant

Fair But Cold Is Prediction

Cold weather and fair skies are expected to persist through the New Year weekend.

Forecaster W. J. Denney in San Francisco said today that the fair but cold weather will continue at least through tomorrow.

The temperatures will range from a 45 to 53 degree high today, dipping tonight to 36 through 42 degrees, said Denney.

Last night temperatures plummeted as low as 35 degrees in parts of Marin County as cold foggy air massing in the Central Valley escaped through the Carquinez Straits and swept across the San Francisco Bay Area.

During the 24 hour period ending at 8 a.m. this morning a low of 35 degrees was repeated in the Fairfax area.

There will also be some local morning overcast, says the forecaster, but otherwise the skies should remain fair through tomorrow.

Police Chief Almost Shot In Mill Valley

A Mill Valley insurance adjuster, who allegedly threatened to kill his wife during a family argument last night, nearly shot Police Chief Dan Terzich instead.

George W. Rourke Jr., 52, of 789 Elinor Avenue barricaded himself in the upstairs bathroom and let fly with a .38 caliber snub nose revolver, sending a bullet tearing through Chief Terzich's trouser leg.

Another bullet was deflected by the bathroom light switch. "That one would probably have hit me in the chest," the chief reported.

Mrs. Rourke called police for help about 6 p.m. Chief Terzich entered the home and found Rourke had locked himself in the bathroom. The chief knocked on the bathroom door and identified himself, whereupon Rourke fired his first shot, which shattered the light switch.

Terzich said he knocked on the door a second time and was answered with another bullet which ripped through the door and tore through his pants leg.

"At that point I told Officer Lee Cellers who was with me to go downstairs to protect Mrs. Rourke and the children for I was going in after Rourke," said Terzich.

"I then told Rourke that unless he opened the door and came out, I was going in after him.

"Rourke started fumbling with the lock on the door and finally emerged from the bathroom, his hand extended with the revolver lying in the palm," said Terzich.

The chief said that the shooting was the result of a long series of family arguments.

A search of the Rourke residence turned up a loaded .22-caliber automatic pistol in a bedroom and an unloaded 30-30 automatic rifle in another room.

Rourke was booked at the county jail on charges of being drunk, resisting arrest, assault with a deadly weapon and disturbing the peace. He was released on $525 bail a few hours later.

California Traffic Deaths Hit New High

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California traffic accidents have killed more persons so far this year than during any year in history, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said that a provisional count today showed 3,812 deaths on state highways so far in 1961.

Rusk Warns Russ Of Berlin Defense

Tone Set For Next Round Of Red Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Setting the tone for new talks with the Soviets, Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned Russia today it would be a "dangerous illusion" to think the West will not fight to preserve its vital interest in Berlin.

The secretary said in a major speech to the American Historical Assn. meeting here that a Soviet misunderstanding of this basic fact could lead to a nuclear war.

President John F. Kennedy and other Western leaders, he declared, have decided that the "vital interests and commitments in West Berlin, crucial to our own security, must be defended at whatever cost."

That decision "remains the basis on which we intend to explore the possibilities of a peaceful resolution of the Berlin crisis," he said. "If peace depends on clarity, the other side must not be allowed any dangerous illusion."

He said "this clarity is the basis of an assurance to our own and other peoples that the possibilities of patient diplomacy will be exhausted to insure that vital interests are protected and that the other side will not be permitted to make a fatal mistake."

The next stage of this patient diplomacy will get underway shortly — possibly next week —when U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson starts a new sounding out of Russia's Berlin intentions.

Apparently taking note of Thompson's mission, Rusk put U.S. policy in this light:

"We regard it as essential that our negotiators — wherever they may sit -- work with measured confidence, knowing that behind them there exist well balanced, flexible, and highly mobile miltary strength and a government and people prepared to use that strength if vital interests are threatened."

There are several paths to nuclear war, Rusk said.

If could happen if one side or the other deliberately sets out to provoke one — although "I am inclined to believe that the irrationality of such a course makes it relatively unlikely."

Also, it would be a situation in which two sides confront each other, each utterly convinced that under no circumstances would the other resort to nuclear war, each therefore tempted to press its demands across the threshhold of disaster.

Third, Rusk said, the path to war lies in simple confusion about essential interests, misapprehensions about the tolerable limits of conduct.

Kennedy Calls For Conference On Arms Needs

Optimistic On Health Of Father

PALM BEACH (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy has summoned Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and the joint chiefs of staff to his vacation home here next week for an early 1962 appraisal of the nation's military needs.

This was reported today as Kennedy looked forward to a relaxed new year's weekend, brightened by the most optimistic word so far on his stricken father's condition.

According to White House sources, McNamara is expected to arrive here Tuesday evening, accompanied by Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric. They are to be joined Wednesday by the Joint Chiefs, who are the uniformed leaders of the armed forces, for decisions on just what the services need in weaponry and other items.

The discussion in large measure will be aimed at pinning down justifications for the record high military budget of more than 50 billion dollars Kennedy plans to send to Congress next year.

This will come as a follow-up to a three-day series of meetings the president concluded here last night with a group of key aides.

While he had heartening personal news about his father, the chief executive also had glum tidings confronting him —a warning from Adlai E. Stevenson that United Nations inability to deal with India's attack on Goa could present "serious consequences for world peace."

Mrs. Kennedy India Trip Off

PALM BEACH (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy today postponed her trip to India and Pakistan until early March because of the illness of the president's father.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said the change in date from January to March was made after consultation with both the Indian and Pakistani governments.

"The delay in Mrs. Kennedy's trip is necessitated by the illness of the president's father, Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy," Salinger added.

It is understood that the elder Kennedy is expected to be in the hospital at least until March. Mrs. Kennedy might have made her trip late in February, a spokesman said, but that would have taken her to India in the midst of that country's elections. It was felt it would be better to delay until after the elections are held.

Riots Erupt In Algeria Over Troops

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle's plan to make peace with revolt-torn Algeria as an independent nation touched off new violence today by European settlers in the African territory.

Two Moslems and a French policeman were killed in new disorders in Oran, bringing to six the number killed in that Algerian port in less than 24 hours. The city's commercial life was paralyzed by a shutdown of shops and cafes by European owners.

Hardly had de Gaulle finished his speech last night announcing most of the French army will be withdrawn from Algeria than riots erupted in Oran. French troops, who sometimes sided with the Europeans in the past, moved in quickly to put down the riots.

De Gaulle repeated his determination to come to terms with the Algerian nationalists in a year-end report to the people. The right-wing Secret Army Organization jammed his broadcast in Oran.

Plastic bombs — favorite weapon of the right-wing diehards crippled or shook radio and TV relay towers at Bordeaux, Toulouse, Nimes and Toulon in France. Bombs also went off in the Algerian city of Constantine.

The French president's announcement that the French army would be withdrawn from Algeria—"in any case"—was a severe blow to the Europeans in Algeria who have looked to the army for political as well as military support throughout the eight-year nationalist rebellion.

In Algiers Europeans felt cut off. Their statements boiled down to a feeling that now they were on their own.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Death Attempt

GILROY (AP) — A Portuguese immigrant here took a hammer and drove a three and one half-inch spike into his head in a suicide attempt, the sheriff's office said.

Frank Vieira, 41, was described in good condition in a hospital after surgery in San Jose early today.

Authorities quoted Vieira's sister as saying that her brother had been despondent because he didn't think he could hold on to his job as a milker on a ranch.

The spike penetrated halfway into his head, an officer said.

Negro Candidate

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Robert L. T. Smith, the first Negro to run for Congress in Mississippi since Reconstruction Days, kicked off his campaign last night with a television speech protesting bigotry.

Smith called on voters to ignore "the shouting of outworn slogans and the screaming of epithets of bigotry." The Jackson grocer is seeking the seat held by staunch segregationist Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.).

France-Tunis Talks

ROME (AP) — France and Tunisia wound up a second round of exploratory talks here yesterday on issues including the future of the French naval base at Bizerte.

Afterward a Tunisian Embassy official said the talks were expected to be resumed in Rome in about a week.

The Tunisians had been asking French agreement in principle on eventual evacuation of the base, which Tunisia unsuccessfully tried to take by force last summer.

Vietnamese Curbs

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam today announced a sweeping economic decree putting tight curbs on imports, raising taxes on many items, and generally tightening the Vietnamese economic belt.

Children Die In Fire

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Three children burned to death in their beds today when fire raced through their bedroom in a frame apartment house in southwest Dallas.

Justice of the Peace Pierce McBride identified the dead as Douglas, 4; Bernard, 2, and Rene', 7 months, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Allen.

The children's mother, Mrs. Mary Allen left the children sleeping to go to her job at a downtown drug store. Before the babysitter got to the Allen home, the fire broke out.

Father Shoots Children

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A father shot two of his children last night, one critically, then wounded himself during an argument with his brother, police said.

The father, William J. Batara, 25, a clothes cutter, began shooting a rifle in his apartment after a fist fight with his brother, Rickey, 22.

Laura, 6, and William, 2, were struck by flying bullet fragments, plaster and wood. The girl, hit in the throat, was described in critical condition. Her brother was in good condition.

Officers said Batara, after learning he had injured the children, shot himself in the head. He suffered two severe wounds.

Freezing Weather

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New Year's weekend dawned chilly across the nation Saturday with freezing temperatures forecast as far south as Miami.

While parts of New York State and New England worked to clear snow accumulations from Thursday's and yesterday's big fall, fruit and vegetable farmers in Florida and the Gulf Coast braced for possible crop damage.

Temperatures high in the Smoky Mountains dropped to two below zero Thursday night and zero readings were forecast early today. About two feet of snow fell in the mountains during the week.

In Florida, sub-freezing temperatures were expected today for Dade (Miami) County's multi-million-dollar vegetable industry and the citrus belt in the central section of the state. Citrus men, however, said the mercury would have to plunge to 25 degrees and stay there several hours to damage grapefruit and orange trees.

McCarthyism Definition Ires Lawmaker

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A Wisconsin lawmaker says a new dictionary's definition of McCarthyism "is slanted" and "an example of what disturbs people about the books in our schools."

The definition was defended by a spokesman for the publishers of the new book. He said usage dictates which words should be added and their meaning.

The criticism was expressed in an interview by Republican Assemblyman Russell Olson. He is one of three Republican members of Wisconsin's Lower House seeking an investigation of the state's school books. Olson represents the Twin Lakes area, divided in a controversy over introduction of the 1879 edition of the McGuffey Reader into the elementary school there.

Olson aimed his remarks at the definition in Webster's third new International Dictionary, published by C & C Merriam Co., Springfield, Mass.

The definition notes that the term stems from the activities of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and continues:

"McCarthyism. A political attitude of mid-twentieth century closely allied to know-nothingism and characterized chiefly by opposition to elements held to be subversive and by the use of tactics involving personal attacks on individuals by means of widely publicized indiscriminate allegations, esp., on the basis of unsubstantiated charges."

NAACP Ban Is Ordered In Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A circuit judge last night issued a permanent injunction forbidding the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People from operating in Alabama.

NAACP attorneys promptly announced they would appeal the decision to the state supreme court "at an early date."

State Atty. Gen. Macdonald Gallion praised the decision, saying it showed "the NAACP that it is not above the laws of Alabama and its people. We have no place in Alabama for crusades of contempt of local law by professional promoters of agitation.

The decision handed down by circuit Judge Walter B. Jones came just six hours after the close of a three-day hearing on the state's suit against the NAACP.

The decision was the latest in a running battle between state legal authorities and the integrationist organization.

In previous cases, Jones fined the NAACP $100,000 for refusing to make public a list of its members, but the fine was set aside by higher courts, and in 1956, he issued a temporary injunction against NAACP activities.

In the hearing just ended, the state had accused the NAACP of violating that injunction and asked Jones to make it permanent.

Books Boom

NEW YORK (UPI)—Book sales topped the billion dollar mark for the first time in 1959 and went higher in 1960. Book sales have been increasing at a steady 10 to 12 per cent every year for the past decade, the "Exchange," official publication of the New York Stock Exchange reports.

Unique Goodwill Troupe Is Leaving For Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—A big company of tiny entertainers is setting off today on a new kind of international goodwill mission.

The troupe includes 150 puppets, uncounted fish and monsters, two and one-half tons of equipment and nine humans. But the dogs, bulls and snake-charmers are being left home.

"We don't want to risk offending anyone," says Bil Baird, co-boss with wife, Cora, of the 15-week aerial expedition into India, Nepal and Afgahanistan on behalf of the U.S. Information Agency's cultural exchange program.

Small villages and rural areas, as well as big cities, are on the itinerary.

"As far as we can find out, the art of puppetry began thousands of years ago in India," Baird pointed out.

Almost every type of stage doll known to the Bairds is going along—shadow, rod, hand, ventriloquist and string. The human company has been holding packing drills, as well as performance rehearsals.

Much of the material being programmed has been used on frequent TV network programs and domestic tours. Some special material has been devised to conform to Indian taste.

U.S. Blasts Charges By Tshombe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States says Katanga President Moise Tshombe's charges of interference against U. S. Ambassador Edmund A. Gullion are untrue and may be propaganda to justify a repudiation of The Congo peace agreement.

In a telegram to President John F. Kennedy, Tshombe accused Gullion of interfering in The Congo talks and of urging the United Nations to resume military action against Katanga.

The State Department statement reaffirmed U. S. confidence in Gullion and called on Tshombe to carry out the agreement made Dec. 21 at Kitona between him and Congo Prime Minister Cyrille Adoula.

The U. S. statement said in part:

"Ambassador Gullion was involved in the Kitona talks because Mr. Tshombe appealed to President Kennedy to help halt the fighting in Katanga and arrange a meeting between Mr. Tshombe and Prime Minister Adoula.

"Because Mr. Tshombe asked for an American guarantee of his personal security in addition to guarantees given by the United Nations, the ambassador escorted Mr. Tshombe to and from Kitona and remained there during the talks.

"We hope that false charges against Ambassador Gullion are not part of a propaganda campaign designed to justify denunciation of the Kitona agreement."

Atmosphere Tests By U.S. 'Imminent'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. decision to resume testing of nuclear weapons in the atmosphere was described today as imminent.

Informed sources spoke in terms of days or weeks, rather than months, of the time when they expect President John F. Kennedy to give the signal.

While authorities said Kennedy has not yet made the final decision to go ahead with the tests, they expressed little doubt that he would, barring some major change in international conditions.

The impetus for a renewal of U.S. atmospheric tests after a three-year layoff stems from Russia's breaking the test moratorium last fall.

Western studies of more than 50 Russian atmospheric explosions indicate the Soviets made significant progress in triggering devices and in packing more explosive power into smaller warheads. U.S. strategists figure the West must keep its lead in nuclear arms as a deterrent against the Soviets starting a war.

The United States took a long step yesterday toward preparation for the tests. The Pentagon announced a joint task force was being formed to arrange and conduct atmospheric bursts when and if Kennedy gives his approval.

Nov. 2 the president announced that the United States must prepare for the possibility of setting off above-ground nuclear blasts. Last week a joint statement by Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said that preparations should be pushed.

It was understood here that arrangements have been made with the British government for use of Christmas Island, a British-controlled island in the Pacific, as a base for atmospheric testing.

The Defense Department said it has set up a joint task force to plan, support with men, materials and transportation and carry out the test series. Army, Navy and Air Force men will all take part, as will the Atomic Energy Commission.

Under the military-AEC relationship, the AEC builds atomic devices while the armed services tell the AEC their requirements on the particular weapons needed.

Since Russia scrapped the test moratorium, the United States has gone ahead with a series of underground shots of relatively small size, according to AEC announcements, in which no fission debris was released into the atmosphere.

CHANGING NAME TO ROSE

Former showgirl Joyce Matthews, 42, and former showman Billy Rose, 62, were married in New York City last night — again. That is, they've been formerly married to each other, the first alliance ending in divorce after three years in 1959. Miss Matthews' daughter, Vicki Berle, was on hand to give her blessing to the newlyweds. Miss Matthews was formerly married to comedian Milton Berle twice, too. She was. (AP Wirephoto)

Board Chairman Change Expected

First session of Marin County supervisors for 1962, starting at 1 p.m. Tuesday, is expected to see a change in chairmanship.

Having served a second term as chairman of just one year, veteran Supervisor William D. Fusselman is expected to put the unpaid presiding officership back into the hands of his colleagues with recommendation that a yearly rotation system be started.

This seems likely to put Supervisor Walter D. Castro into the chair, similarly for a second term. A strict rotation plan would give the task back to William Gnoss, who has never served, but Gnoss has expressed himself as happy to see Castro take over again.

Mostly routine business is expected to occupy the Tuesday session, which will handle work normally divided into two days. A new chairman, incidentally, might see fit to return to the former system of meeting only on Tuesday with morning and afternoon schedules.

Marin Countys' civic center model may take another trip, this one to Santa Rosa for a meeting of the National Institute of Planners. The Public Works Department is putting such a request before the board.

Communications include another letter from attorney Peter Allen Smith, offering a contract to build a nursing home at private expense and give care to county patients at monthly charge.

Rothschild, Raffin and Weirick of San Francisco has put in one more letter to complete the record on the civic center stop-work damage claim.

Other items will include a county counsel opinion on the recent request for time on Saucelito Canal dredging, a fire protection agreement with the radar station on Mount Tamalpais, and three planning matters.

Youth Shoots Self In Foot

Donald B. Moss, 15-year-old student who lives at Palomarin Ranch in Bolinas, suffered an accidental gunshot wound in his left foot Wednesday afternoon, Sheriff's Inspector Carl Sears reported.

The youth was treated by Dr. Gordon Plattes at Point Reyes Station.

Sears said the youth was working on his defective .22 caliber rifle in the hills when the gun accidentally discharged. The bullet entered his left leel and lodged in the area of the toe. The wound was described as minor.

Sonoma State Plans Teaching Interns

Thirty liberal arts graduates will be selected by Sonoma State College at Cotati in January to serve as elementary school teaching interns in Sonoma and Napa Counties next year.

Those selected will spend one semester of full-time work at the college beginning in February. Graduates interested should write the chairman of the division of education and psychology, the college said.

'To Be As One' Film Set At Jewish Center

A motion picture, "To Be As One," narrated by Hershel Bernardi, a star of the "Peter Gunn" television series, will be shown at the 16th annual meeting of the Marin Jewish Community Center at 8:30 p.m., Jan. 8.

The meeting at the center in San Rafael, will elect directors and hear the annual report of Richard Gladstein, president.

The film, produced by the Jewish Centers Assn. of Los Angeles in cooperation with the National Jewish Welfare Fund, will be introduced by Irwin Gold, executive director of the United Jewish Community Centers. It describes many of the center's programs. After its showing there will be an opportunity for discussion with Morris Bode as moderator.

The nominating committee, consisting of Julius Selinger, chariman, Mrs. Saul Smith and Kurt Rosenthal, has picked the following slate for directors:

Gladstein, Dr. Jacob S. Margoliash, Dr. Gerson Jacobs, Samuel M. Shapero, Bode and David Sheldon Jr., incumbents; and Dr. Mervyn Shenson, Aaron Schwartz, Julian Mack II and Mrs. Bernard Diamond.

Dr. Earl Siegel has been named to fill the vacancy created by resignation of Wilfred Cohen, it was announced. The following have terminated their service on the board of directors: George Baker, Dr. Samuel W. Cramer, William Rubin and Wilfred Cohen.

Water Resources Press Unit 'Dry'

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The question of whether the public information section of the state department of water resources should mention the names of Gov. Edmund G. Brown and William E. Warne, water resources director, in all news releases, is now apparently a moot one.

As the year ended, the department just about didn't have an information section.

The dispute started several weeks ago when it was revealed Frank Bragg, chief of the information section, had issued a memo directing personnel to include the names of Brown and Warne in all stories, regardless of their nature.

This caused an investigation in the department and, after about one week of questioning, Ralph Watters, member of the staff, eccepted full responsibility for the memo's which got into the hands of newspapermen. Watters offered his resignation, which was accepted.

Watters claimed the memo has been issued and he had made a copy of it in order to protect himself against possible charges he was favoring the governor and Warne while holding a civil service position.

Next, another member of the information section, Richard Williams, was granted a transfer to the California disaster office.

The latest development in the exodus from the office was the resignation of Bragg. Department officials said they had attempted to convince Bragg he should stay on the job.

This left only one person on the job in the information office, an editorial aide, and she was reported as having put in for a transfer to another department.

Thus the question soon may not be what names are mentioned in water department stories but whether there will be any stories.

Boys Questioned About Thefts

More than a dozen boys are being questioned in connection with two fires and a break-in, which occurred at the Terra Linda Community Building this week.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, furniture in the teen-age room of the building was found smolering. Yesterday, Mrs. Morris Bode, general manager and secretary of the Terra Linda Community Services District, reported that the building had been entered.

The only items missing are a telephone receiver and a colored wall map of the Terra Linda area. A wooden chair had been damaged with a sharp instrument.

Scout Building Drive Gifts Phase Launched

A team of volunteers under general chairmanship of Carl G. Brown Jr. of Ross has launched the "major gifts phase" of a $314,628 Marin County Boy Scout building program, according to announcement of Fred R. Dickson who is general chairman for the campaign.

Dickson said this is a preliminary operation for an appeal scheduled to reach its climax in February. Its main aim is development of Camps Tamarancho near Fairfax and Marin-Sierra north of Emigrant Gap into fully operational camps.

Assisting Brown, who is president of the Marin Scout Council, is Russell LaBelle of Sleepy Hollow as vice-chairman. Brown will serve as captain of Team 1 comprising William Kimball, William E. Waste and Ted Wellman all of Kentfield and Robert Scott of Mill Valley.

LaBelle will captain a team including David Allen of Belvedere, Thomas Barfield of Bolinas, Carl Carlsen of Sleepy Hollow, Joe Cervetto of San Rafael, Fred Drexler of Mill Valley and Philip Ehrlick of Sausalito.

Heading a third team will be Joe Cooper of Kentfield, whose group includes John Cahill, James MacKay, Sanford Lowengart Jr. and Russell Johnson all of Kentfield and Roger Hooper of Ross.

A. Crawford Green Jr. of Ross will captain a team comprising Ed Lewis and John Painter of Ross, Norman B. Livermore Jr. of San Rafael and Girvan Peck of Kentfield.

Must Answer To Assault

After a two-day preliminary hearing in Anaheim-Fullerton Municipal Court, former San Rafael claims adjustor Albert Bernard Cote Jr., 34, was held to answer late yesterday on charges of assault with intent to commit murder, assault with a deadly weapon and attempted kidnaping.

Cote, who served a Marin County jail sentence for trying to rape a 15-year-old girl near Stinson Beach last year, will appear at 9:30 a.m. Friday in Santa Ana Superior Court for arraignment and plea. He remained in Orange County Jail in lieu of $105,000 bail.

Cote vanished from his San Rafael home last month after leaving a "suicide" note. He is accused of shooting and wounding Policeman Sam Charles Punter on Dec. 7 near Anaheim when Punter tried to prevent Cote from forcing a teenage girl into his car at gunpoint.

Police To Testify At Connell Hearing

Mill Valley Police Chief Dan Terzich and officer William Walsh will fly to Reno next Wednesday to testify in the preliminary hearing of Jeffrey Kelsey Connell, 17-year-old Mill Valley youth accused of taking part in a Reno holdup-murder last March.

The officers were instrumental in getting an admission from Connell that he was present at the crime.

Tunnel Fire Boy Sent For Treatment

One of the boys aged 12 and 13, who set the disastrous railroad tunnel fire in San Rafael last July has been sent to Clearwater Ranch, a private treatment center in Mendocino County, Chief Probation Officer Walter Busher disclosed yesterday.

The 12-year-old left Marin Juvenile Hall this week for an indeterminate stay at the Clearwater Ranch.

The 13-year-old, who is still at Marin Juvenile Hall, will be transferred to the juvenile hall in Sonoma County next week because his parents have moved to that county, Busher reported. His placement has not been decided as yet.

Last September Judge Richard M. Sims Jr., juvenile judge, ordered both boys to be placed in custodial institutions for psychotherapy.

The fire, set inside the Northwestern Pacific railroad tunnel at Puerto Suello Hill just north of San Rafael, destroyed the tunnel and claimed the life of an Alto fireman. Fireman Frank Kinsler and his truck were sucked into the blazing tunnel when pavement collapsed from under them.

New York Catholics

RELIGION'S DILEMMA

1961—Year Of Provocative And Unresolved Questions

By JULES LOH
AP Staff Writer

A discordant beginning and a harmonious end — with a sprinkling of curious, provocative and often exciting notes between—characterized 1961's religious news.

The debate over federal aid to parochial schools, which began in January, generated as much heat as it did light on this sensitive area of the church-state controversy.

But, by December the accent once again was on interchurch cooperation. The World Council of Churches met, expanded its scope to include missionary activity, and opened its ecumenical arms to the Russian Orthodox Church, while official observers from the Vatican's secretariat for Christian unity made notes of the entire proceedings.

There was other evidence throughout the year of steps toward what churchmen are hopeful will one day lead to a unified Christendom.

At an assembly in Philadelphia in July, the Congregational Christian churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Churches formally merged into the two million-member United Church of Christ and immediately began discussing the possibility of future union with the Disciples of Christ.

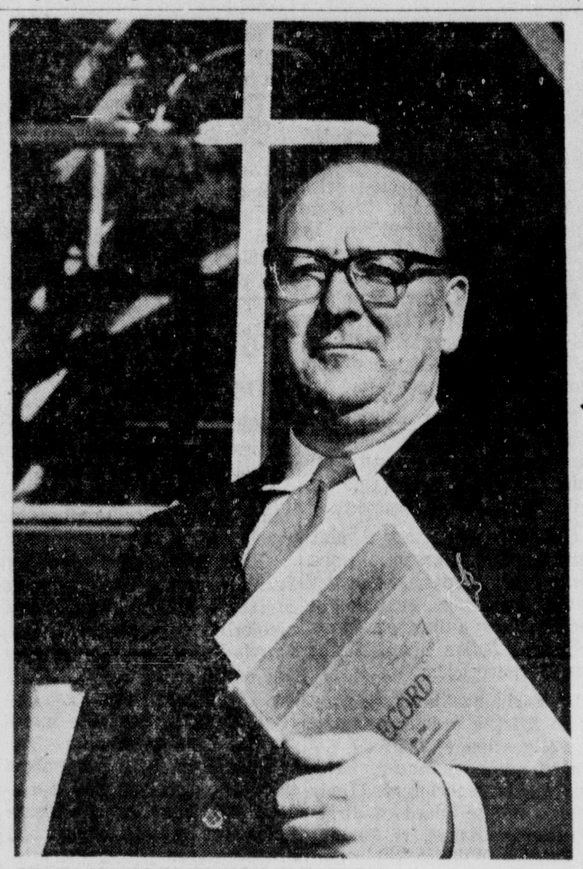
Some progress also was made on what has come to be known as "the Blake proposal" —the suggestion made a year ago by Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, clerk of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., that Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Methodists and the New United Church of Christ seek unification. All four bodies indicated during the year their willingness to begin exploratory discussions.

A bright moment in 1961 was the appearance in March of the new English Bible. A fresh translation of the New Testament with modern day English its hallmark, it was the product of 13 years of work by 70 scholars appointed by the major Protestant churches of the British Isles.

Bible readers remained skeptical the new work would supplant the venerable King James version, but publishers insisted it wasn't meant to, that its purpose was to "present the word of God in language the common man can understand."

Judging from the headlines it caused, the pressing question of the year was: Would it be all right to shoot your neighbor if he tried to invade your fallout shelter? An article in the Jesuit magazine America by The Rev. L. C. McHugh, S. J., contending that under certain circumstances a man has the right to defend his imperiled family by taking another's life, became something of a cause celebre among moral theologians.

But at the year's end, amid the celebrations of the birthday of the "Prince of Peace," the question remained unresolved.



MUSICAL JOURNEY TO BETHLEHEM—Dr. S. Drummond Wolff, minister of music at Holy Innocents' Church in Corte Madera, announced last August when he assumed the post that he intended to launch out from the church with a broad program of music for residents of the county. His Christmas musical program, featuring his composition "The Journey to Bethlehem," was so popularly received at Christmas Eve services that it will be repeated at the church's New Year's Eve Solemn High Mass. (Independent-Journal photo)

Christmas Music Encore At Corte Madera Church

"Music in the church is a corporate act of worship. Give me an interval of two or three years and I think we can have a choral society that could be famous."

Dr. S. Drummond Wolff made this statement last August when he arrived at Holy Innocents' Parish in Corte Madera as the new minister of music.

Tomorrow, less than six months later, Holy Innocents' Church will accede to popular demand and present the choir under the direction of Dr. Wolff in a repetition of the Christmas Eve program at the 11 a.m. Solemn High Mass.

They will sing the Oldroyd Mass and offer one of Dr. Wolff's compositions "The Journey to Bethlehem," featuring three soloists.

Soloists are David Dudrow as St. Joseph, Frank Blake Jr. in the dual role of innkeeper and watchman, and Blake's wife Carol as Mary.

"Our church was filled to capacity for the Christmas Eve services," said Rev. Tod Ewald. "The congregation overflowed onto the area outside the church so that we were forced to turn many people away."

"Since Christmas Eve we have had so many requests from parishioners, who attended the services and those who were unable to do so, to repeat the Christmas music," Rev. Ewald said, "that we decided to hold the same service on New Year's Eve."

In the short time that Dr. Wolff has been supervising the musical direction of the congregation, progress toward a worthwhile choral society has been made rapidly.

The 16-member core of an adult choir at the church which he began teaching last August has now doubled.

Work has just been completed on expanding the church's choir loft.

When asked to explain this drive for music in the church, Dr. Wolff explains, "Music in the church is a corporate act of worship; uplifting, and a fine way of showing joy and happiness."

Trinity Installs Directors

The 1962 Board of Directors of Trinity Lutheran Church of San Rafael will be installed during the 10:30 a.m. service tomorrow.

Dale Hitzeman, Marin Golf and Country Club Estates resident and owner of the Francisco Radio Co. in San Rafael, is president of the new board. Other officers of the board are W. T. Berner of San Rafael, vice president; A. L. Horstmeyer of Greenbrae, secretary; Melvin Brockhoff of Corte Madera, treasurer, and Paul Rusch of Lucas Valley, financial secretary.

The ceremonies will also include the installation of directors, Robert Heath of San Anselmo, Kenneth Moser of San Rafael, George Tyhurst of Fairfax, Mark Walker of Santa Venetia and Sunday School Supt. Arnold Tietz of Santa Venetia.

Special acknowledgement for the contributions of the 1961 board will be made during the services, according to the Rev. Fred C. Braunschweiger.

The 1961 board, composed of Jack Craemer, George Steinert, Carl Yeager, Norman Arends, Larry Hoyt, Gordon Nelson and Hans Zuehlsdorff, secured the building loan and began construction of the new church and educational unit due to be completed in February.

Rev. Braunschweiger said special services in commemoration of the naming of Jesus will be held at the church at 10:30 a.m. on New Year's Day.

Old Russ Churches Crumbling

YAROSLAVL, Russia (UPI) — The Soviets are preserving for posterity a few old monasteries and churches in the Moscow area but some ancient churches in Russia's few medieval towns are being used for non-religious purposes or crumbling unwanted into oblivion.

The onion-shaped domes of most Moscow churches are kept painted or gilded.

But the picture is different in the village of Rostov-the-Great. Workers stream in and out of one old church now labeled "potato storeroom."

A small church nearby now is a well-kept library. Farther along the highway, other churches have not fared well.

From a distance, a medieval monastery looks like a painting from an old Russian fairy tale. On closer inspection, its brown dome is seen to be in sad need of paint. Inside the sagging wall is a barrier of barbed wire. On the steps a Soviet soldier slouches, staring at tourists.

Choir To Tour

The Golden Gate Baptist Seminary Chapel Choir will sing in churches in Southern California in a tour to be made Feb. 1 through Feb. 4 under direction of Dr. Carlyle D. Bennett.

More Religious Relics

JERUSALEM (AP) — Religious articles thought to be relics of an Israelite settlement in the time of King David—about 1,000 years before Christ—have been discovered in excavations at Ein Gev, across the Sea of Galilee from Tiberias, the Israeli Radio reports.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

New Year Getting A Big Welcome

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

There'll be merrymaking tomorrow night to greet the New Year and usher out the old from Bolinas to Novato from bayshore of the Tiburon Peninsula to the Meadow Club on the slope of the mountain, and from Sausalito and Mill Valley. More than 200 members and guests will gather at the Meadow Club to celebrate. During the 7:30 p.m. cocktail hour the orchestra will play and then the dinner dance will take place.

Among those entertaining will be Frank Paganini, president of the club, and his wife, who will have 16 guests. Others hosting good sized dinners will be Messrs. and Mesdames Albert Arnold, Gulio Arce, Gordon Chambers, Edward Grady, R. L. Hibbett, and J. Benton Tulley. Mrs. William Price will have a party of six. All the members of the entertainment committee, Comdr. and Mrs. Harry Transue, co-chairmen, Dr. and Mrs. John Cann, Messrs. and Mesdames Arthur Latno, Robert Parish, and J. William Zimmerman are entertaining friends.

THE TIBURON PENINSULA Club will be setting for a no-host New Year's Eve party organized by Messrs. and Mesdames Lloyd Stark, R. L. Bilger and S. W. Schneider. Plans for it started when the three couples discussed the wonderful Halloween dance of the club and the splendid orchestra. They decided to have a New Year's party with the same orchestra. More than 70 people agreed with them and there's a big waiting list.

A GOLD RUSH theme is being carried out at the New Year's Eve party Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Jampolsky of Tiburon are hosting in the rumpus room of their home. It will become an old California saloon with the player piano "giving out" with the music for dancing.

THE ROLF W. BEERES are giving their traditional New Year's Eve champagne and bridge party. Most of the guests will be Hillhaven neighbors. Others will be Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Partee of Kentfield and Mr. and Mrs. J. Ritchie Dunn of Piedmont. Also attending will be Mrs. Jampolsky's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Powell of Tacoma.

THERE'LL be a double celebration when Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hepburn Wilkins of Ross host a party New Year's Eve at their Bolinas home, as Dec. 31 is the host's birthday. Their overnight guests will be Howdy and Anne Allen. Among those going to their homes in Bolinas are Judge and Mrs. Jordan L. Martinelli, Jordan L. Martinellis Jr., Messrs. and Mesdames Gerald Thomas, William Mosden, James Jenkins and William Pomeroys.

IN NOVATO members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and their wives will greet the New Year at a party at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall. The program will begin with barbershop quartet singing. Skits will follow. Co-chairmen are Jack Davis of the chamber and his wife.

IN GREENBRAE, Mr. and Mrs. George Antipa are entertaining at a new Year's Eve party. Among their guests will be Messrs. and Mesdames Niels Schultz Jr., William Swan, Dan Sweeney Jr. and Frank Stolte.

IN MILL VALLEY the John Nasons, just returned from New York City, are celebrating New Year's early with a dinner party tonight.

Unique is the traditional table tennis tournament the William Samples give on New Year's Eve. The game is played in the attic before a 2 a.m. buffet. Out of town guests of the 16 invited remain overnight and are served breakfast New Year's morning.

Others entertaining at New Year's Eve parties are the Leigh Athearns, who will give a dinner, the George Turnbulls and Bernard Tombelaines.

FOR EUROPE Grant Leibert of Belvedere left Tuesday. He flew to London where he will spend a week or more at the Mount Royal. Then he'll fly to Paris, Rome and Lisbon to complete a 30-day tour.

With Grant for Christmas was his son, Michael, a senior at Whitman College in Walla Walla, Wash., who left for the north Wednesday. Another son, John, a student at Kansas University, Kans., did not return for the holidays. The third son, David, makes his home with his mother, Mrs. William Atchley and Doctor Atchley, who reside on the Belvedere Lagoon. Grant has leased his Belvedere home to Al Birch, who will stay there with his family.

THE SNOW BALL for teen agers was held Wednesday night at the Meadow Club. A midnight supper was served. Sandy Weitzel, daughter of the John Wetzels of Greenbrae, and Bruce Fairey, son of the Thomas E. Faireys, who recently moved into a new Greenbrae home, were co-chairmen.

IN KENT WOODLANDS the Andrew Halleys will be hosts at a New Year's Eve party for members of their bridge group which includes Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Newton Longfellow, Robert Quinlans, George Schirmers and Leon Smiths.

Jean Boileau To Be Bride Next Summer

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Boileau of San Rafael are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Jean Dorothea, to Gregory Thomas Lear of Honolulu.

Parents of the future bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. Lear of Honolulu.

The bride-elect, who is the sister of Joan Ann Boileau of San Francisco, was graduated from San Rafael High School and attended the University of the Pacific in Stockton. In June she will graduate from the University of Hawaii. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Phimister of Edinburgh, Scotland, and the late Mrs. Minna Boileau of San Rafael.

The prospective benedict was graduated from San Rafael High School and the University of Hawaii where his fraternity was Phi Delta Sigma.

He is the brother of Mrs. Thomas Kop of Honolulu and the grandson of Mrs. Audley Nichols of San Rafael. He is employed as an electrical engineer in the shipyard at Pearl Harbor.

The wedding will be an event of July 21 in San Rafael.

PLANNING A WEDDING on July 21 are Jean Dorothea Boileau of San Rafael and Gregory Thomas Lear of Honolulu. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Boileau of San Rafael.

Stacked High

NEW YORK (UPI) — Folded and ready for use, the number of diapers processed by the diaper service industry in any one year would reach more than 59,000 miles up into space —if piled one atop the other. That's one-fourth the distance to the moon.

The Diaper Service Industry, figures also that if the diapers were placed side by side, they would form a belt 20-inches wide and more than 1.9 million miles in length. That's long enough to girdle the earth 80 times.

Hill School P-TA Changes Meet Date

A change in the meeting date of the Hill School P-TA has been announced. The regular meeting date has been on the first Tuesday of the month, but it will meet on Jan. 9 at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of the school. At that time rehearsals will begin for the play "The Living End" to be presented by the P-TA in March.

Russell Dreosch, a teacher at Hill School, wrote the play and will also direct it. Mr. Dreosch announced that the play has been partly cast, but anyone interested in being in the play should attend the rehearsal as there is still some casting to be done.

Williams-Kibbee Rite In Ross Home

In a ceremony before the fireplace of the Jerome Flax home in Ross yesterday evening, Mrs. Elizabeth Kibbee of Mill Valley became the bride of Carleton Williams of San Rafael.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson officiated for the double ring ceremony.

For her wedding the bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Frank B. Dilts of Durham, N.C., and the late Mr. Dilts, chose an ensemble of blue brocade.

Attending the bride in frocks of blue were Margaret and Carol Kibbee, the bride's daughters, and Carol Williams, daughter of the bridegroom.

David Williams was best man for his father and Bryce W. Anderson of San Rafael was an usher.

The bride was graduated from the University of North Carolina and is employed with the Legal Aid Society in San Rafael.

The bridegroom was educated at the University of the South in Sewanee, Tenn., and is a member of the editorial staff of the Independent-Journal.

The newlyweds will reside in Mill Valley.

Novato Community Club To Hold New Year's Dance

The Novato Community Club will hold a New Year's dance from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m. at the Community Clubhouse.

An orchestra will play for dancing which is open to the public; however no tickets will be sold at the door. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Ed Krause.

Also on the program will be a guest performer, from Novato, Sal Priolo who will sing numbers the late Al Jolson made famous.

A cold buffet will be served at midnight.

Several parties are planned prior to the dance. Among those entertaining will be Mr. and Mrs. Roland Brown who have invited several couples in for a champagne cocktail party. On the guest list are Messrs. and Mesdames Ted Lane, Alex Consagra, Eric Kollgaard, Jerry Young, Scott Wright, Robert Young, John Beckman, and Dr. and Mrs. George McDaniel, all of Novato, and Mr. and Mrs. Harris Smith of San Rafael.

Double-Breasted Suit Making A Comeback

Coming back in menswear: the double-breasted suit. So says Michael Daroff, president of a Philadelphia suit manufacturing company. The new double-breasteds are slimmer in line, with lapels only half as wide as pre-war models. The overlap of the jacket measures only four and one-half inches, compared to the seven inches of pre-war. Four buttons placed closer also make the new suits look younger and slimmer than the wide, six-button placement of old.

Savings Tip

NEW YORK (UPI)—How much should you save?

Some financial experts recommend that as an adequate reserve, you ought to have from three to six months' salary in your savings account to meet emergencies.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Dec. 30, the 364th day of the year with one to follow in 1961.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1911, Dr. Sun Yat-Sen was elected the first president of the Republic of China by the revolutionary provisional assembly.

In 1927, Japan dedicated the first subway in the Orient in the City of Tokyo.

In 1947, King Michael of Rumania agreed to abdicate, charging that he was being forced off the throne by local communists, aided and abetted by the Soviet Union.

In 1959, President Dwight Eisenhower planned a trip to four South American nations.

A thought for the day: Abraham Lincoln once said: "Truth is generally the best vindication against slander."

"Murph" Helman (left) and Noel Hatch (right) of the sightseeing boats Harbor King, Queen, and Princess, are shown with a giant "greeting card" signed by 75 employees and friends just before it was shipped off to Giants' quarterback Y. A. Tittle. Helman, a 49er season ticket holder, urges all northern California Tittle fans to deluge Y. A. with "All the Way With Y. A." telegrams to Green Bay.

PRO PLAYOFF GAME ON TV TOMORROW

Packers 3½-Point Favorites Over N.Y.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Eager Green Bay finally gets a chance to see a National Football League title game tomorrow after 42 years of waiting. The favored Packers pit their powerful ground attack against the pass-minded New York Giants.

A sellout crowd of 41,000 is expected at City Stadium. Weather of some moderation compared to recent sub-zero temperatures was expected. If the Packers win, this city of 65,000 is primed for a rousing New Year's Eve.

It was about 10 above when the Giants arrived 2½ hours late Friday after their final workout at Yankee Stadium. Informed that the Packers were extremely confident, coach Allie Sherman of the Giants said, "Fine, that's the way I like it." The Giants' reaction to the weather was "Wow."

The Packers, 3½ point favorites, were to limber up for about 15 minutes this morning on the frozen practice field. The Giants had scheduled a short workout later.

The carefully tended turf of City Stadium, covered by a tarp and a layer of straw since mid-November, was firm but unfrozen. When the end zone portion was uncovered briefly Friday, football cleats were able to cut into the turf.

Vince Lombardi, the Packer coach, wants firm footing for the power thrusts of fullback Jim Taylor and halfback Paul Hornung. He also wants solid footing for his pass defenders to contain receivers like Del Shofner, Kyle Rote and Joe Walton. Y. A. Tittle was expected to be the Giants' starting quarterback with 40-year-old Charlie Conerly in the bullpen.

A million-dollar gate is assured with $400,000 in ticket sales and $615,000 for the radio-TV rights. The Green Bay area will be blacked out on network NBC-TV, but will hear the game on radio—NBC. Game time is 11 a.m. PST.

Each member of the winning team is expected to collect about $5,000. Each loser will get about $3,000.

Defensive back Jesse Whittenton and end Bill Quinlan came out of th hospital after a bout with the flu to join the Packers' workout. Lombardi said Taylor, John Symank and Max McGee, who had been on the injured list, were found fit for battle.

The Giants also reported everybody ready.

Bad Day For Marin Prep Basketballers

It was a bad day yesterday for the five Marin Athletic League basketball teams that played Bay Area competition in practice games.

Only the San Rafael Bulldogs emerged triumphant by a 52-38 margin over South San Francisco. The San Franciscans won the Class B contest, however, by a 42-37 count.

Elsewhere Marin schools came out second best. The results: Polytechnic 63, Redwood 40; St. Joseph's 58, Marin Catholic 42; Lincoln of San Francisco 58, Drake 44; Montgomery of Santa Rosa 61, Novato 32.

Sharp-shooter Rod Monti once again led San Rafael with 15 points while Rich Robertson with 18 rebounds and 9 points and Jack Sovereign with 10 digits did more than their share in the victory.

Redwood jumped off to a 17-14 first quarter lead, but then Poly, one of San Francisco's best clubs, poured on the steam to take a 30-23 halftime lead and won going away. High for Redwood were the guards, Jay Johnson and Brad Stephenson, each with 14. Rick Skinner led the Giants in rebounding.

Poly also won the Class B game by 33-27.

Marin Catholic had trouble on the free throw line, missing 16 charities, and that proved to be the downfall. Ron O'Connell with 15 and Jerry Smith with 9 were the leading Wildcat scorers.

The Marin junior varsity edged out St. Joseph's in the preliminary game, 37-35 with Bruce Mackinson's 14 points leading the way.

Drake fell behind by a 16-5 first quarter scorer and never could catch up to the talented Links. Pirate leaders were Brad Busch with 14 points and John Wallace with 8.

Lincoln also won the B contest.

Montgomery had it easy over Novato by the score of 61-32. Carl Morris was high for the losers with 8 points.

Montgomery copped the B game, 36-25.

Broncs, Gaels In Finals Of WCAC Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Santa Clara's Broncos will play St. Mary's Gaels for the West Coast Athletic Conference Basketball Tournament championship here tonight (9 p.m.).

Santa Clara outshot USF 53-37 last night. St. Mary's downed favored but cold Loyola of Los Angeles 69-55.

The Broncos were led by Leroy Jackson with 17 points and held the usually high-shooting USF guards, Bob Gaillard and Jim Brovelli, to a combined score of 12.

Steve Gray, St. Mary's high scorer with 18 points, did his team even more service by corralling 22 rebounds. He was outshot by Ed Bento of Loyola who had 22 points.

Loyola and USF will play for third place starting at 7 p.m.

Tonight's championship game will be televised by KTVU, Channel 2, at 9 o'clock

Tars Lose Tourney Playoff, But Pick Up Three Trophies

Coach Cal Riemcke and his College of Marin Tars came home from Santa Maria today loaded down with three beautiful trophies from their participation in the Alan Hancock Holiday J.C. Basketball Tournament.

One award was for the Tars' second place finish and the other two belonged to Lynn Livie and Jim Mitchell for their selection on the All-Tournament team.

Last night the Tars lost to the mighty Mt. San Antonio College quintet in the championship playoff, 87-55, but Riemcke shrugged off the loss. "Our kids did all right for themselves," he said. "We learned a lot in this tournament and it will pay off in our own league. San Antonio has a big, strong, fast gang of older kids with more experience. They taught us plenty."

Riemcke also said his Tars were worn out from their exhausting 70-66 overtime victory over Santa Ana in the previous night's semi-finals. "We ran out of gas in the second half" last night against San Antonio. It was the latter's third major tournament championship this season.

Randy Petrini was Marin's high scorer with 18 points, followed by Livie with 11. Livie's three-game tournament total was 68 points.

NFL Playoff Should Be Scheduled In L.A. For Weather . . . And Money

CONNOLLY

Just one look at the pictures of the snow on the frozen field of the Green Bay Stadium was enough to send me digging into the bottom drawer for my long red woolies. I won't be able to watch the Packers—New York Giants championship game on TV tomorrow without a bad case of the shivers.

It's cold enough at Kezar during the regular season. But 30 degrees below freezing!

One of these days the NFL brass is going to schedule all championship games into the Los Angeles Coliseum. It would be a sensible move both from the standpoint of weather and box office, and money talks in this league. Loud.

Local sentiment rides with "Old Folks" Y. A. Tittle and his New Yorkers, but the betting boys who make the odds have made the Packers the choice, and rightly so. No game played under such conditions can be a fair contest, but offense will have the edge, and that is the forte of the Packers.

THE ONLY grumbling in these parts is by die-hard 49er fans who still wonder why the game isn't being played in San Francisco. Coach Red Hickey's laddies had a real shot at the title but folded in mid-season like a stuck balloon.

There have been a lot of reasons and excuses handed out for the collapse of the 49ers, but none of them have rung true. With the season over, there have been a few leaks from usually tight-mouthed players, and the finger points directly at the head man, Red Hickey.

NO SOUR grapes involved, just the plain fact that unhappy warriors don't put out their best game week after week. Packer assistant coach Phil Bengtson let it be known when he left the Bay Area that Hickey was a hard man to work with. It is not so easy for players to pack up and leave, but R. C. Owens has pointed the way and others may follow.

Hickey has kept the turnstiles whirling, so the front office has given him full support. But let internal rebellion get a foothold as it has with the Los Angeles Rams, and trouble lies ahead. And when the trouble hits the pocket book, Hickey will be gone, just as all other coaches have gone before.

The only way to be sure of your job in coaching is to own the club, as does Papa Bear George Halas of the Chicagos. Halas fired himself once, but found it easy to rehire himself.

THE BIGGEST shocker of all came with the UPI All-NFL team selections. One lonely 49er made the team by the skin of his teeth and only nine votes, lowest of all twenty-two selected. That was defense man Eddie Dove.

No team can aspire to championships without a better showing than this, and you can't tell me that there is not better potential among the 49er players.

Next year will tell the story for the 49ers, Coach Hickey, and owner Vic Morabito. A Happy New Year for them would mean the same for all of us. But I have my doubts.

Here's Video Schedule For Bowl Battles

U.P. INTERNATIONAL

College football winds up the old year and rings in the new year with a host of bowl games on tap this weekend—almost all of which are nationally televised.

You armchair quarterbacks could settle back this afternoon for the Gator Bowl, East-West Shrine Classic, Sun Bowl and Blue-Gray game while on New Year's Day it's the Rose, Sugar, Cotton and Orange bowls.

Today's dial twisting was only a warmup for the four major games on Monday.

Minnesota, beaten by Washington in this year's Rose Bowl, seeks to make amends against UCLA, an 8-point underdog. The Rose Bowl will be telecast by NBC-TV starting at 2 p.m., with more than 100,000 fans on hand in Pasadena.

TV viewers can get a look at undefeated Alabama (10-0), the national champion for 1961, when it meets Arkansas (8-2), co-champions of the Southwest Conference in the Sugar Bowl. It can be seen on NBC-TV at 10:45 a.m., PST, from New Orleans, La.

Mississippi (9-1) is a 3-point choice over Texas (9-1) in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. CBS-TV will televise at 11:30 a.m., PST.

In the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla., Louisiana State (9-1) is a 13-point favorite over Colorado (9-1) and will be telecast by ABC-TV starting at 10 a.m. PST.

Seals Vs. Blades In S.F. Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's Seals can tie Los Angeles for third place in the Western Hockey League's Southern Division tonight when the teams battle at the Cow Palace.

Los Angeles has 11 victories, 21 setbacks and 4 ties. San Francisco has 12 victories and 20 losses. Each victory counts two points and each tie one in the standings.

So the Blades of L.A. go into the game with 26 points to 24 for the Seals who beat Spokane in their last outing.

DIRTY JOB FOR A CLEANER PAPER

For two years the Independent-Journal has been experimenting with formulas for a water-based ink to produce a clearer print, printing that doesn't rub off and that doesn't create mist while being applied by the speeding, thundering presses. Photo at left shows Lillard Jordan, maintenance mechanic for California Ink Co. of Berkeley, entering I-J's 1,200-gallon ink tank to clean it out of old formula. At right he's scooping out old ink into 50-gallon drums. Latest change of ink was accomplished after press run Thursday and took nearly four hours under supervision of Melvin (Buzz) Davis, I-J press foreman, and Harold Brown, California Ink official. Churchill Issues New Year Message

LONDON (UPI)—Sir Winston Churchill, in a new year's message, called today on the free world to adopt "far-sighted unity of plan and action" in 1962 to overcome "the darkness and menace" of the old year.

The 87-year-old elder statesman issued the statement from his London home through a British news agency.

"Nineteen hundred and sixty-one draws to its close in darkness and menace," the wartime prime minister said. Dangers that confronted us have in no way diminished in the last 12 months and new factors have been added to them.

"To overcome them will require from us all great and sustained efforts.

"A far-sighted unity of plan and action of the countries of the free world should be our commanding purpose.

"I hope and trust that speedy progress may be made towards this aim in 1962."

Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the Laborite opposition, said in his new year message:

"Humanity is confronted with the greatest dangers and the greatest opportunities in history.

"I pray that in this critical year ahead the governments and the peoples of the world set their course decisively away from the dangers and towards the opportunities."

Candlelight Concert Is Given Big Ovation

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

An all Mozart program of superlative quality was presented last night as the opening concert in the second annual series of candlelight concerts sponsored by the Homestead Valley Improvement Club.

Taxing the capacity of Brown's Hall in Mill Valley was an audience of about 200, including many professional musicians, that accorded the "Bach to Mozart" chamber players the same ringing ovation they received last year.

The musicians were Everett O'Bannon and Cicely Edmunds, violins; Helen Stross, cello; Elizabeth Bell, viola; Frealon Bibbins, clarinet; Raymond Duste and Carolyn Michaelean, oboes; Ross Taylor and Don Burnett, horns; and Milton Nadell, double bass.

Though the opening Cassation No. 2 in B flat major was good, with special credit going to the strings, the full expressive power and sonority of the whole group was achieved in the dance-like Divertimento No. 11 in D major that concluded the evening.

Playing of the ensemble was beautifully balanced and skillfully led by first violinist O'Bannon.

Individual honors went especially to a newcomer to the group, Frealon Bibbins, for his superb performance in the clarinet quintet in A major and to Raymond Duste for his remarkably sustained tone and smoothly controlled dynamics in both the cassation and divertimento. These two musicians gave the impression of complete identification with the spirit of the music.

Bibbins' technical mastery of his instrument from production of flawless rippling flights of individually distinct notes to precise execution of wide intervals was a joy.

In the divertimento a rare pleasure was the clear, true tone of the horns kept to just the right volume for the rest of the instruments.

Adding to the enjoyment of the evening was the informal good fellowship made possible by the seating at candlelighted tables with refreshments available during the intermission that followed each number.

Since people had to be turned away last year because of limited seating capacity and the series this year was sold out long in advance, it would be good if more people could have the privilege of hearing this fine group through arranging double performances of each concert, perhaps on consecutive nights.

Oakland Gets Grant To Study Slum Problem

OAKLAND (UPI)—A two-million-dollar Ford Foundation grant has been awarded to the City of Oakland for a study of human problems of slums and other run-down areas.

Oakland is the first city in the country selected under the continuing Ford Foundation project.

Work on slum clearance and redevelopment has been under way for some time by the city. Projects made possible by the grant will get under way after the first of the year.

The plan calls for coordination of public and private agencies. It will involve Alameda County probation and health departments, the state Youth Authority and the board of education working with city offices and private agencies.

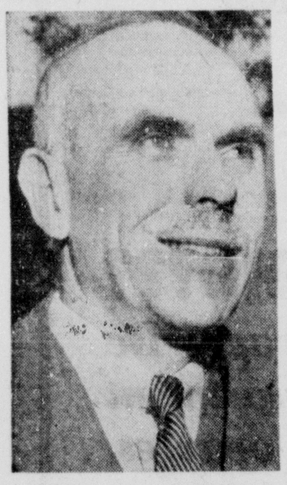
U.S. Foreign Aide Home In Sausalito

Harvey M. Coverley, a man who has spent much of his life in foreign service, is taking a breather in his American home town—Sausalito — and getting ready to retire temporarily to Italy.



HARRY M. COVERLEY
New aid program pleases

He and his wife, Helen, have returned from Isfahan, Iran, where Coverley was regional director for the International Co-operation Administration. Its economic aid program, said Coverely has recently been abolished and reformed into the Agency for International Development.

"I am greatly encouraged by the actions of the Kennedy administration in respect to foreign aid," the 58-year-old Coverly declared.

"The new agency has been staffed with new, tough, hard-driving people. At the same time, the size of the organization has been reduced, making it more economical and effective," Coverely said.

He would not comment on use of funds in foreign aid, saying his past job was one in which he implemented the program drawn up for him and that he did not handle funds.

He said he was in charge of a 90,000-square-mile agricultural region, handling projects dealing in health, agriculture, education and industry. He worked on such projects as assisting the Iranian government to drill a tunnel through a mountain to another to transfer water from one river to another so that could be used more profitably.

Isfahan, where the Coverleys lived two and one-half years, is the textile center of Iran, as well as a metals processing center. Coverely said the U.S. assisted people working in home industries to boost their handweaving from three meters to 20 per day by introducing better looms.

An historical city, Isfahan was once capital of the country at the time of Shah Abbas the Great. It is Arab but not Moslem, Coverely said. Near Isfahan there are still old fire temples and relics from the Zoroastrian period.

Coverely said he and his wife plan to leave Sausalito the end of January to live in Italy for a few years. But despite their travels, said Coverely, "Sausalito is the place we consider to be our home."

Novato Endorses Rapid Transit

The Novato City Council has endorsed rapid transit for Marin County, but wants the line extended to Novato, Mayor Wayne Womack of Novato said yesterday.

An account of the "Marin Sounding Board in yesterday's Independent-Journal quoted Womack as saying the Novato City Council had not taken a vote on the matter.

"The Novato City Council did endorse it, but asked that the Marin County Board of Supervisors work for extending the lines to Novato," he said.

Womack said he felt it inevitable that rapid transit would come to Marin County, but that the lines should be extended north to Novato.

The program will be rebroadcast at 12:30 p.m. Sunday over radio KTIM.

Romance, Politics Hit Head-On

TAIPEI (UPI) — Romance collided head-on with politics here when a woman member of the Nationalist Chinese legislature married an American university professor.

Today, the legal question of whether the new bride is still entitled to her seat in the lawmaking body was under study by the interior ministry.

Miss Chieh Wen-huang and Prof. Allen Millier, an American teacher at the Taiwan Normal University, were married on Christmas Eve.

The question of Mrs. Millier's eligibility has not yet been raised in parliament, but some legislators have privately urged her to resign.

A Taipei newspaper which contacted the honeymooning couple quoted Millier as saying the whole thing was "a tempest in a teapot" which may blow over by New Year's Day.

Mrs. Millier said she intended neither to give up her Chinese citizenship nor to resign from her legislative post. She pointed out that 48 male legislators have married foreigners without forfeiting their seats.

First Confirmed Flu Case Reported In Marin County

The first laboratory-confirmed case of influenza in Marin County during December has been reported to the health department, according to Dr. Mary Jo Tonelli, assistant health officer.

She points out, however, that since in most cases of mild flu-like disease no laboratory examination has been made, it is impossible to say how much actual influenza the county is experiencing. In a few cases in which laboratory tests were made, a virus different from the influenza organism appeared to be responsible.

Vaccination against influenza is known to be about 60 per cent effective in protection against the disease, states Dr. Tonelli. It should be noted, however, that the vaccine is effective only against the known strains of influenza.

As recommended by the U.S. Public Health Service and the California State Department of Public Health, the county health officer urges vaccination against influenza for persons in these classifications: pregnant women, all persons over age 65, and people of all ages who suffer from heart disease, lung trouble, diabetes, or other chronic illnesses. While influenza may not be more likely to attack persons in these groups, its effects on them are more dangerous.

It is also recommended that individuals employed in essential community activities receive the influenza vaccine.

Those who want flu vaccinations should consult their private physicians. The health department is not giving the shots.

Youngsters like this are more than newspaperboys. They've become a healthy economic force, both for their own betterment and the good of the community. Imagine: these young fellows, since the start of the Independent-Journal Merchants Point Program, have purchased some $5,-500 worth of goods and services from participating merchants. (Using points, earned as commissions for new subscriptions, redeemable by the I-J at cash value).

Merchants in the plan both gain business and help these younger businessmen gain in the knowledge of buying and saving. (Some boys for instance, are putting savings with Marin firms toward a college education).

In addition, our 600 newspaperboys, earning nearly $200,000 annually, are placing these funds to work in Marin—banking, investing, buying, adding to the economy and to their own advancement. It's all part of the community values which these self-reliant youngsters create by doing a job. In this, we believe, everyone gains.

Independent-Journal

For Michael Fraize, that's a window to the future. Just 13, he's already investing part of his earnings with Marin County Savings & Loan Association.

THE PARENTS' CORNER

By RICHMOND BARBOUR, Ph. D
Guidance Counselor

Defiant San Requires Strong Control To Give You Respect

(Q) "My boy is 10, and beginning to feel independent. Sometimes he is openly defiant. He is rude in front of other people. I get quite embarrassed. So far I've given in rather than create scenes. Am I right?"

(A) No. Don't let him get by with open defiance. If you do, you'll lose all control. When he is defiant, punish him. Wait to do it until you are alone. But don't weaken. Use the mildest punishment that will teach the needed lesson. He should give you his respect. You should not accept anything else. This will become very important when he reaches his teens.

(Q) "My boy is 14, and doing well in school. However, recently he joined a bad gang. His school work is beginning to deteriorate. Can a good boy hold out against a bad gang?"

Mr. W. T.

(A) Not for long. Many good boys have gone to pot after joining bad gangs. Good girls, too. See your son's counselor. Ask if jobs can be found for him at school which he will enjoy, and which will bring credit to him. A team managership for example. Or a place on the school paper. Do your best to have your boy drop from the bad gang. If worst comes to worst, move. Then he'll have to find different friends. The early teen years are crucial.

(Q) "How early should a girl start dating? My daughter is 12. She has a crush on a boy of 15. He has a bad reputation. We've refused to let her date him. She's terribly upset. Are we making a mistake?"

Mrs. V. C.

(A) No, you are not. Girls of 12 are too young for the responsibility of dating. Some girls of 14 can date safely. Some girls should wait until later than that. Much also depends on the boys they go with, and the affairs they attend. Tell your girl she will thank you eventually. Don't give in.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

POPULATION

Capehart housing following the census.

New population figures contained in the reports are based largely on the number of dwelling units occupied since the census of 19 months ago.

The foundation estimates present population in the cities as follows:

San Rafael, 24,727 (up 20.8 per cent since the census); Novato, 20,907 (up 16.9 per cent); San Anselmo, 12,014 (up 3.7 per cent); Mill Valley, 10,871 (up 4.4 per cent); Corte Madera, 6,744 (up 13.1 per cent); Larkspur, 6,343 (up 11.1 per cent); Fairfax, 6,193 (up 6.5 per cent; Sausalito, 5,864 (up 10 per cent); Ross, 2,578 (up one per cent), and Belvedere, 2,228 (up 3.7 per cent)..

Among unincorporated areas, the foundation estimates a 7.3 per cent population gain in the San Geronimo Valley, 9.7 in Kentfield and Greenbrae (including the portion of Greenbrae within Larkspur), 13.2 per cent on the Tiburon Peninsula outside Belvedere, 10.2 per cent in West Marin from Point Reyes Station south, and 2.4 per cent in West Marin north of Point Reyes Station but including Nicasio.

The only decline noted is in Marin City, a drop of 12 per cent from 2,519 people to 2,217.

Among the gains reported is 10.9 per cent in the population of San Quentin Prison—from 4,862 in April, 1960, to 5,394 this month.

More Inmates Due Transfers

San Quentin Prison will continue the transfer to other prisons of potential troublemakers in the inmate population after the New Year's holiday.

Six more convicts, from a group of 99 isolated after the prison's wave of knife murders, are scheduled to be moved to other facilities on Tuesday, according to Business Manager Irving O. Ritter.

Ritter said that the transfers, which will resume after the New Year's Day holiday, will continue throughout the week. He did not indicate where the six prisoners to be transferred Tuesday will be sent.

Yesterday, 11 prisoners were Seven were shipped to the medical facility at Vacaville and four to Folsom. Seventeen others were shifted to Tracy or Soledad the day before.

Cal-Vet Loans Hit $18.8 Million

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State Department of Veterans Affairs issued more than 18.8 million dollars in Cal-Vet loans during November.

The total, according to director Joseph M. Farber, represented 1,446 loans for farm and home purchases, and was three million dollars more than October volume.

Farber said 912 claims for federal benefits were allowed through the claims and rights service offices at a value of $1,245,161. This also was an increase both in number and value over October.

Ulbricht Tells Of Need For Russ Troops

MOSCOW (AP) — East Germany's Communist chief, Walter Ulbricht, admitted today that the presence of the Soviet army had made the Communization of East Germany possible.

He also disclosed the tremendous blow dealt his regime by the flight of specialists and intellectuals to the West.

"The training alone of the working force—which was then recruited by West German monopolists—costs us above 30-billion marks: That is nearly 40 per cent of our national income in 1961," he said.

Ulbricht's admissions—among the frankest made by the Communist leader — appeared in an article in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda.

Ulbricht had previously insisted that the Communists had erected the wall dividing Berlin — and keeping East Germans virtual prisoners — to keep out Western spies and saboteurs.

He repeated that claim in the Pravda article but went on to admit for the first time the tremendous losses East Germany had suffered in defections to the West.

Ulbricht's admission that this regime was the creation of the Soviet army has never been conceded by the Communists.

Ulbricht declared further that only the overthrow of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government by "progressive forces in West Germany itself" could bring about reunification of Germany.

The East German leader said that the financial loss suffered by his regime — 30-billion marks — represented sums spent on training the young refugees before they fled to the West.

ACCIDENTS

San Francisco. He was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Pauline Ann Blackburn, 22, of San Francisco, was treated at Marin General Hospital and transferred in satisfactory condition to a San Francisco Hospital after her small French sedan turned over on White's Hill as she was going east on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard about three miles west of Fairfax yesterday afternoon.

She said she had just reached the top of the hill and noted she was headed too far toward the center. As she pulled to the right the car spun around and overturned.

Japanese Budget

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese cabinet approved a 6.7-billion-dollar budget for 1962, the largest spending program in the country's history. It provides 500 million dollars for military expenses, 77.8 million dollars over the current fiscal year.

ELECTION

to limit to one year, but to which he has given 37.

On this latter matter, court house opinion is that Jones will say "no" and thus clear the way for his top man George Gnoss, brother of Supervisor William Gnoss, to seek the office. Gnoss has said he'd run if Jones doesn't.

Only through special dispensation has Jones stayed in the county retirement system past the age, for others than elected officials, of 70. If he goes into another term as clerk he must give up a fat bundle of money and certain other practical considerations—and everybody agrees Jones is practical.

Jones said this week that members of the grand jury and other prominent citizens have urged him to remain as clerk. He also said he could make more money otherwise, such as paying more attention to his real estate and insurance businesses and snapping up some of the many chances to get rich, or perhaps richer, by cashing in on Marin County opportunities of all kinds.

If Jones like Calvin Coolidge chooses not to run he will be joining Tax Collector-Treasurer M. F. Donohue, about his own age and admittedly tired but not so tired but that he decided recently not to quit forthwith but to leave selection of his successor to the polls rather than the supervisors.

Already announced as out for the job is Stanley Fontez of the auditor-controller's office.

Jones is in particularly good position to note where the contests are starting to shape up and he said there have been recent inquiries at his office indicating active interest in his own job, that of the auditor-controller, the assessor and the tax collector-treasurer.

If the pay increases expected from the supervisors next week duly go through, the four-year salaries of auditor, clerk, sheriff, assessor and tax collector-treasurer work out at $14,400 a year and that of recorder will be $12,050. This is how Administrator Alan Bruce has worked out an average calculated on progression from $13,500 the first year and $15,300 the fourth—a total of $57,600, or $14,400 a year.

The unpaid coronership seems pretty solidly nailed down by Frank Keaton, who gets fees and finds that things harmonize nicely with his occupation as undertaker. There might be no contest for that post.

Supervisors Walter R. Castro of San Rafael and William Gnoss of Novato are in an odd spot, both receiving $400 a month as against $500 a month for their three colleagues including one who joined the board only this month following a recall election. Even if re-elected they must serve at this cut rate until a year from now when new terms would start; or successors would start at $500 then, due to the peculiarities of the law.

None of the incumbents seems at this time to be in great jeopardy. The only one at all under fire is the admittedly highly able Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, whose cycle reappraisal program has raised plenty of hackles but who has been repeatedly declared on firm legal ground—most recently by the Marin County Grand Jury, though it questioned the morality of the scheme.

Broemmel has convincing arguments as to why he and state officials see no logical alternative under present conditions. And he has a record of success at the polls.

Auditor-Controller Leon A. DeLisle is a technical expert and a veteran vote-getter. Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and Recorder Noel T. Giacomini are alike able and well liked in their respective spheres.

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety, highest-paid of the lot, hasn't served a full term since taking over from William O. Weissich but he is considered able and dynamic.

Thus with a field of able and well liked incumbents, subject to little criticism and involved in no real controversies, it would seem that no outsiders would be thinking in terms of anything but the treasurership and perhaps the county clerkship.

Just the same Clerk Jones is willing to bet that plenty of candidates will file for a variety of jobs starting March 7, the first day nomination papers can be legally placed with his office.

OBITUARIES

Larkspur's Mrs. Hilma Zaro Dies

Mrs. Hilma Zaro, 85, a resident of Larkspur for 50 years, died at a local hospital this morning after a short illness.

She had had a heart condition and suffered a fall at her home about eight days ago. She made her home with her son Ernest L. Zaro at 228 Madrone Avenue, Larkspur.

Funeral services will be held at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael at 2 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. Gerald Garlid of the Corte Madera Lutheran Church will officiate. Interment will be at Mt. Tamalpais Cemetery. Friends may call at the mortuary after Monday evening.

Mrs. Zaro's husband, Prosper Zaro, a plumber, died about 10 years ago. She leaves her son and two grandchildren, Gregory and Bruce Zaro in San Anselmo.

Well known in Marin County, Mrs. Zaro came to Sausalito from San Francisco at the time of the 1906 earthquake with the Dr. Langley Porter family. She had lived in Marin ever since.

S.F. Woman Victim Of Stabbing

Ruby Kellom, 22, of San Francisco suffered a stab wound in her abdomen after an argument in the Pig Haven restaurant near Sausalito early today.

Sheriff's deputies were seeking a man known as "Fay," believed to be the assailant. Miss Kellom was treated at San Rafael General Hospital and released.

From conflicting statements given by witnesses, sheriff's deputies were unable to get a clear picture of what had happened.

Deputy Charles Prandi said Miss Kellom had been visiting Pig Haven with two sisters, Arris and Myra Kellom, and Billie Sanders and Emela Johnson, all of San Francisco.

The stranger named "Fay" quarreled with Sanders, and then reached into his pocket. Ruby Kellom told the stranger, "You won't shoot him!" The man swore at her and struck her in the left side and vanished.

Another woman later told officers she had been kicked in the stomach in the Pig Haven parking lot. Whether the kicking was connected with the stabbing was not determined.

BUTLER

forcefully to prod the democratic lawmakers.

Finally, Truman and others accused Butler of rigging the Democratic National convention in 1960 to help bring about the nomination of President John F. Kennedy. Butler denied the charge and challenged his critics to supply evidence.

The slender, gray-haired Butler was born at South Bend, Ind., June 15, 1905. He attended Notre Dame and practiced law in South Bend before he became national chairman. Until then, he was an almost unknown figure in politics outside national committee circles.

He soon became known, however, as a storm center in the divided Democratic Party.

Butler held the national chairmanships during both the 1956 and 1960 Democratic national conventions but stepped aside after the 1960 meeting. He remained in Washington to practice law.

Butler was married in 1934 to the former Anne Briscoe. He is survived by Mrs. Butler and their five children—Paul, Brian, Kevin, Maureen and Karen.

Another 'Tropic' Trial Will Start

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A. L. Wirin, state legal counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union, said today he will defend a La Jolla bookstore owner and his wife against charges of selling an obscene book, Henry Miller's controversial "Tropic of Cancer."

Lawrence McGilvery and his wife, Geraldine, will go on trial Feb. 19 in municipal court.

They were arrested at their bookstore and several copies of the book were seized by police.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When Your Opponent Makes A Good Play—Tell Him So

When your opponent makes a good play, be sure to give him polite encouragement. "You're playing better these days," is useful, although many swear by "Not bad — for you." Just don't give him too much encouragement.

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	All Pass

Opening lead — ◇ 3

West leads the three of diamonds, and East wins with the ace. East can see that there isn't much future in continuing the diamonds. He decides to lead spades instead.

If East leads a low spade, you will let it ride to dummy's jack. You will still have the king of spades as a second stopper, so East will get nowhere.

East must switch to the queen of spades at the second trick. Here is where you make your little speech of encouragement.

WHAT HAPPENS: You can see what happens if you follow the impulse to put up the king of spades. You need a diamond trick for your contract, but West takes the king of diamonds and leads his remaining spade through dummy. East gets the rest of the spades, and you go down two.

That's far too much encouragement for your opponent. If you do that sort of thing he'll get the idea he can win from you. (What's more, he probably will.)

When East leads the queen of spades, pat him kindly on the head, but play a low spade from your hand.

You are still sure of a spade trick, but you can develop your diamonds without fearing a spade continuation by West. That poor fellow will be out of spades by the time he gets his king of diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION: Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold:

♠ A Q 10 8 4
♥ 10 8 3
♦ A 7
♣ 8 3 2

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three spades. The combined strength should be enough for game. You are ready for either four spades or three notrump, depending on how well your partner can support spades.

Quentin Escaper Caught In L.A.

Alfred G. Martinez, San Quentin Prison inmate, has been caught in Los Angeles for the second time since his escape 16 months ago, Associate Warden Dale B. Frady announced yesterday, adding, "we hope he stays caught this time."

Martinez, 33, serving five years to life for first degree robbery in Los Angeles, escaped Aug. 30, 1960, from a fire fighting camp near Covelo in Mendocino County.

He was captured last February in Los Angeles and held in jail there. His brother was in the same jail at the time and scheduled for release. In a mixup, the wrong Martinez was freed.

He was recaptured last night by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on an escape warrant filed in Mendocino County, Frady said.

Marshall Dill Wins Divorce

Marshall Dill Jr. of Kentfield, assistant professor of history at Dominican College in San Rafael, has won a divorce from his novelist wife on grounds of desertion.

Dill met Pamela Frankau of London, author of several best sellers, during World War II when he was with the Office of Strategic Services. She now lives in England.

Dill told Judge N. Charles Brusatori of Marin Superior Court that his wife indicated more than 10 years ago that she did not want to be married to him.

They have no children.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Must Make Bigotry Give Way To Understanding

The annual day for new year resolutions is just about at hand.

As usual, 1962 will be ushered in with an abundance of well-intentioned promises—some with depth and profundity; others trivial. Some of them will be quickly shattered while the makers of others will try seriously to keep their word.

The new year dawns in a world of chaos, a world bursting with hate. A cold war continues and men pray that hostilities can be averted.

At such a time and in such an atmosphere what can the individual—any individual—resolve in a desire to be of help.

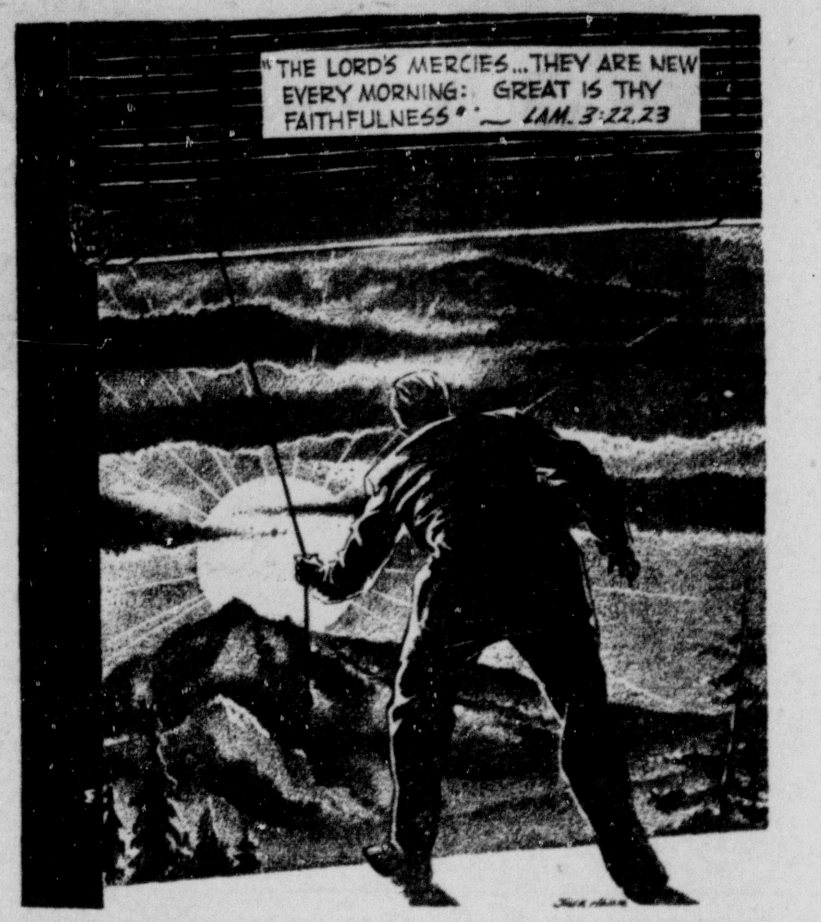
If a shattered world is to be put together, men must first put themselves together, and love must reign again in the human household.

Hate—religious and racial prejudice—must be banished from our m i d s t. Bigotry must give way to understanding. Men must learn to live together—and to understand each other—in spite of differences in religion, in skin color and in national background.

Not until we learn to judge people as individuals, good or bad, and to stop blaming whole groups for the weaknesses of a few, will the human family be able to live together in peace. And when that happens, a hate-torn world will be together once more.

New Year 1962 is a good time to set our sights. Let us resolve to banish hate, distrust and bigotry from our hearts. And let us, this year, remain steadfast to that resolution. (E.B.B.)

A 365-DAY PROMISE



Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to the Novato Unified School District board for scheduling an open hearing on the question of renewing Supt. W. J. J. Smith's contract as chief executive officer of Novato school system.

A BOUQUET to the State Division of Highways for its pledge of immediate action on a third northbound lane on the 101 Freeway at Puerto Suello hill — which in its present condition is most hazardous.

BOUQUETS to J. P. Hawke and J. Donovan Jacobs for their expressed willingness to undertake a survey of the collapsed Northwestern Pacific Railroad tunnel under Puerto Suello hill with a view to determining the cost of restoring it to use.

A BOUQUET to Joe De Maestri upon his retirement from an illustrious 11-year career in American League professional baseball. And welcome back to Marin for good.

BOUQUETS to all hands — the city council, the Army engineers, property owners involved, etc.—for getting together to push ahead on the projected dredging of San Rafael canal.

A BOUQUET to Harry Albert, who owns more of San Rafael's downtown area than anybody else, for giving "free advice" to the city council concerning the development of a city hall at the old E Street school property. We don't always completely agree with Albert's views, but we recognize that he always is motivated by what he honestly believes is best for San Rafael. (Would that more big property owners were like that.)

A BOUQUET to Jess France on his election as president of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce. May his term be productive of good for the county seat city.

BOUQUETS to all 17 Marin residents who were qualified as U.S. citizens in U.S. District court in San Francisco recently.

BRICKBATS — We still don't have any; it is still holidaytime.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By WAT TAKESHITA

It's Been A Year Of Tragedies, Comedies—Not Sorry It's Ending

It's been an eventful year—some comedies and pleasant memories, but not without more than its share of tragedies. We're not sorry to see it draw to a close.

TO OUR many acquaintances, both friendly and otherwise, here's wishing a Happier New Year for 1962.

This was a year of fallout and bomb shelters, and of men and monkeys flying into space.

Some police officers emerged heroes in a year packed with an unusual variety of violations. Other former officers were pulled into the headlines in less happy roles.

THE FAMOUS (or infamous, if you're on the other side of the fence) civic center had its stops and gos, as did the board of supervisors.

This was the year of celebrated Tropic trial, where the book was found dirty but the bookseller clean.

A SCHOOL board in San Anselmo exercised its legal right and duty to condemn land to meet the growing school population, only to be accused of "going after widows (homes occupied by elderly persons near Wade Thomas) and orphans (Sunny Hills property)."

The actual number of homicides were not unusual, but too many were bunched together on the Eve of Christmas, especially behind the walls at San Quentin Prison.

SPECIAL thoughts go to our many friends stricken by illness and accidents. May the new year bring quick recovery to the ailing, and time heal the scars for those who have lost.

ON THE BRIGHTER SIDE, it was the year when San Rafael just about made it in the Miss Universe contest.

Marin residents flashed greenbacks signed by our own Libby Smith of Kentfield.

Veteran police captain, Joe Brusatori, made history for himself by taking his first plane ride into inner space. His verdict: "Flying is fine, but waiting to get on was awful."

AND DOWN Sausalito way, a new sport (turtle racing) flourished on sidewalk arenas. Airman 1/C Nancy Peterson of Hamilton Field trained a four-ounce turtle named Chester, who won one of the big tournaments.

City Hall employees of San Rafael gave birth to a newspaper, which has just been named "City Holler." A bottle of good cheer goes to Doris Steele of the switchboard, who turned in the winning title for the paper.

IN THE FAST and furious pace of modern living, who knows what to expect in 1962. But here's one rumor that seems to persist: There's opposition shaping up for almost every county job that comes up for election next June, but George Jones may not be seeking re-election as county clerk.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

COSTLY NOTE IN HER DIARY

A startling entry greeted a London woman as she opened her diary. In someone else's handwriting she found these words:

"House burgled 5 A. M."

After a few minutes of hurried investigation she learned that the entry was all too accurate. The burglar with a flair for self-advertisement had made off with 24 pounds ($67.20).

However dishonorable the intentions of this thief, he retained his sense of humor, even if it was at someone else's expense.

It is easy to talk about redeeming features in those who offend or cheat us, and very difficult to try to build on their good qualities.

Nevertheless, the least promising of the Lord's creatures retain a spark of humanity that one Christ-like response can often fan into something more.

Rather than be swallowed up by bitterness at people's shortcomings, look honestly at your own faults, and try to treat others accordingly.

"For I am not conscious to myself of anything, yet am I not hereby justified."
(1 Corinthians 4:4)

Let me oppose with all my strength those who offend the rights of others, O Holy Spirit, but love them all the while.

Russians Do Not Tolerate Any Independence Of People, Nations

WASHINGTON — The Soviet satellites continue to kick over the traces—and the end is not yet. Certainly all is not well behind the iron curtain when you consider that within a space of four months:

1—The Kremlin has had to imprison the entire population of East Germany to keep them within the Soviet bloc. Reason—people too independent.

2—The Kremlin has had to break diplomatic relations with Albania in order to get it out of the Soviet bloc. Reason—government too independent.

MOSCOW'S EASTERN European empire isn't what it used to be. Stalin couldn't keep Tito in line and Yugoslavia became the first Soviet satellite to win its independence. Tito wasn't anti-Communist; he just wanted to pursue Communism Yugoslavia's way, not Stalin's way.

The same with Gen. Enver Hoxha, the Albanian leader. He is not anti-Communist; he just wants to pursue Communism Stalin's way, not Khrushchev's way.

And why did the Kremlin decide that it had to take such extreme measures to discipline little Albania? Surely not because of the importance of Albania. I think the real explanation is that after Albania dared to assert its independence of Khrushchev's de-Stalinization, the Kremlin had to make an example of Albania to hold the other satellites in line. Not that the Poles or the East Germans, for example, want to enthrone Stalinism; they don't. They would like to be more anti-Stalinist than Khrushchev.

Evidently Mr. Khrushchev would rather lose a little satellite than to abide such independence as the Albanian Communists demonstrated.

WHEN THE TOP Communist leaders fall out, they throw epithets at each other in a way which makes H. L. Mencken sound like a Sunday School teacher. They know exactly the words which will most infuriate the other. Khrushchev calls Hoxha an ally of the imperialists and, most revolting of all, a "dogmatist." Hoxha calls Khrushchev a "revisionist" and a violator of "Marxism-Leninism."

At one point in its note to the Soviet Union, the Albanian government declared:

"After systematically setting up one economic blockade after another, the blockade of silence and political isolation, in order to bring our party to its knees, at the 22nd CPSU Congress N. Khrushchev went as far as to attack publicly through slanders and vicious accusations the Albanian Workers Party and its leadership and overtly launched counter-revolutionary appeals for the overthrow of the leadership of the party and of the Albanian state, thus grossly interfering in the internal affairs of a sovereign socialist country, a friend and an ally."

It is interesting to compare what Mr. Adzhubei said to President Kennedy in his recent interview with the real-life facts exposed by the Albanian leader. Mr. Adzhubei assured the President that the Soviet Union never interferes in the internal affairs of another country, is against exporting either revolution or counter-revolution, and always wants the people to decide the kind of government they want. Gen. Hoxha shows that these words are for foreign consumption only, that Soviet practice is exactly the opposite.

THE SIGNIFICANCE of this new breach in the Soviet bloc goes beyond the tortured relations between Albania and Moscow. This time numerous Communist parties are siding with Albania. They didn't like having the anti-Albanian line thrust upon them without any advance notice at the Moscow congress. And when Red China spoke out against Moscow's treatment of Albania, less than half of the 81 Communist parties joined the Russians in condemning Albania.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

More About ACLU Dispute

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

It seems that a few more words can still be written on the separation of church and state, ACLU, county courthouse issue. I am a Christian who tries to practice this ethic, also a long time supporter of the ACLU. The ACLU is not always right. In this instance they have failed in a number of respects. First they fail to realize that this is a Christian nation and that the Constitution is a Christian document and that civil liberties is a Christian concept. More important, they fail to realize that a Christian cannot confine his evangelism and still remain true to his ethic. Most important, they are wasting valuable energy on brush fires while the forest fire rages.

The real threat to the church state separation concept is tax exemption, not the celebration of Christmas. The argument of fighting these tiny inroads is absurd as long as we leave the big inroads untouched. I am also deeply doubtful of the need to protect the sensitivities of our atheists. Like all splinter groups, they can survive only at the pleasure of the majority who are of opposite persuasian.

Now one additional point regarding Mr. Dempster's theology. Words like "the gentle Jesus" are fighting words to the militant Christian. Jesus was the founder of the ACLU! "Render unto Caesar . . ." is the very cornerstone of the whole argument. But He would be the first to point out the Phariseeism of their present caryings on. And his denunciation would not be "gentle."

However, all this does not mean we should scrap the ACLU. The thing to do is join it and make it better. I am not sure we would have survived McCarthyism without this organization and we're going to need it more in the next decade than ever before.

Villification Is Inexcusable

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Will you please print the following letter addressed to the residents of the Novato Unified School District:

The emotional, but not substantiated, criticism of School Board Trustees Kirk, Marshall and Sereda is indefensible. The villification of them in public discussion and in private is inexcusable. The impression being conveyed to many of the residents of the Novato Unified School District is that these men have acted on mere caprice and that they did not make their reluctant decision after many hours, days, and months of sincere efforts to rectify the deficiencies they have observed.

School Board Members are, by law and definition, Trustees of the affairs of a school district. They are pledged to fulfill their trusteeship to provide their school district with the best possible educational program consistent with sound educational philosophy and financial practice. They cannot permit their judgment to be altered by emotion or friendship. If they do so, then they have failed in their trusteeship.

Another erroneous impression, too, is that the present crisis is an isolated one instigated solely by Trustees Kirk, Marshall, and Sereda, but nothing could be more false. Former Board members, and others, who now deplore the present situation, have, indeed, short memories. The minutes of Board meetings over the years, as well as the files of the press. will bear this out.

From my own experience as a Trustee for many years I know and appreciate how important encouragement from the electorate is in a time of strife. It is far to easy to criticeiz without full and intimate knowledge which can be obtained only by months and years of work and observation.

Dr. Sereda, Mr. Kirk, and Mr. Marshall now need and deserve your support. There are, I know, hundreds who approve of their decision, but are reluctant to speak out for fear of retribution. Let them know publicly that they have your approval and support. Do not be apprehensive that there will be retaliation against you and your family socially, business-wise, or in the classroom.

'Moppet's' Owners Grateful For Help

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

This letter is long overdue. It did take me some time to adjust myself to the loss of our "Moppet" as phone calls and letters are still coming in.

You and your organization, the radio as well as the sympathetic and generous understanding of your newspaper, were a great help and comfort. All were so wonderful keeping the search for the sunny little black poodle who spent five year, being a clown or monkey trying to make people happier . . .

I know you will feel the grateful and very lasting thoughts we wish to express to you for your efforts in our and Moppet's behalf. Thank you so very much.

Midweek Holidays Loom For 1962

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Now that the advantages of a three day holiday are known it would seem wise to make provisions for all future observances to fall on Friday.

Unless chambers of commerce unite immediately in arranging the change all the 1962 holidays will break into midweek routine with results that will be expensive and unsatisfactory to everyone.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

First message carried on the I-J's new teletype hookup between its Mill Valley bureau and the San Rafael home office was signed by Alex Almcrants as city manager in Mill Valley, who put in a plug for "an efficient civil defense program."

County Supervisor George Whiteley of San Rafael told the state highway commission that it should hurry up and build an underpass where Highway 101 passes Santa Venetia.

20 YEARS AGO

After long discussion, San Rafael City Council decided that the city will cooperate fully with the county in operation of the new police radio system.

Southern Pacific Co. announced it had disposed of its entire block of 23,223 shares in Pacific Greyhound Corp.

Frank J. Keaton, son of Coroner J. Ray Keaton, bought the George Larsen Mortuary of Sausalito from the estate of the former owners.

The host and hostess suddenly announced to a visiting couple that they had six or seven reels of color film taken on their trip through the White Mountains that they were prepared to show, and bustled off to the rumpus room to set up the equipment.

The visiting husband regarded his wife balefully, "Well," he barked, "don't just sit there! Develop a sudden nosebleed or something!"

A high school girl, dancing with the school hero, captain of the basketball team, froze when her chief rival for his affections glided into view.

"Say," observed the school hero. "Nancy's got a new hairdo! And I kind of like pony tails, too."

The high school girl angrily added her two cents' worth. "I'll say one thing for her," she snapped. "She certainly has the face for it!"

Meet Edna Foster: She's The Fairy Godmother Of Mill Valley

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Because she transforms ugliness into beauty Mrs. Henry S. Foster is something like a fairy godmother to Mill Valley. But her magic is far more than turning pumpkin and mice into coach and four, for, while she is a romantic at heart, she is also a shrewd business woman.

The particular way in which Mrs. Foster transforms ugliness into beauty is in remodeling old buildings in the town —not merely to update them but to create structures of architectural originality, artistic merit and, wherever possible, with a touch of old world charm.

Most famous of these is El Paseo—so named because of its architecture reminiscent of a street in Spain. Almost as startlingly transfigured by Mrs. Fosters' talent were the pharmacy, confectionery-restaurant, optician's office and the local newspaper offices across from the bus depot.

El Paseo — a fascinating story in itself—is typical of her philosophy and methods.

IT ALL STARTED when she used to walk past a hideous, narrow three-storied building opposite Mill Valley's beautiful Outdoor Art Clubhouse and grounds, thinking "Why doesn't somebody do something about that ugly things?"

As a member of the club, she considered it an intolerable situation that the monstrosity should be located across from the club which was founded for the purpose of and dedicated to the preservation of Mill Valley's natural beauties.

"Finally I bought it because its ugliness annoyed me so," she said. "In fact, ever since then every building I have bought has been an eyesore that I wanted to change."

A remarkable circumstance is that Mrs. Foster had no experience whatever in the building business and proceeded after month of study of buildings, books and visiting California missions by working out her ideas with a young man, Augustus Costigan.

"He was not a licensed architect," she explained, "but I consider him a building genius.

"I was convinced the venture could be a success commercially, too, for there is no reason why a piece of business property cannot be both beautiful and profitable. This had been proved to me by the success of a similar structure in Palo Alto designed by Pedro Lemos, head of the art department at Stanford University."

STANDING TODAY as a monument to the fabulous success of her efforts is El Paseo with its shops, apartments, restaurant, patios and garden spots, and the arcade

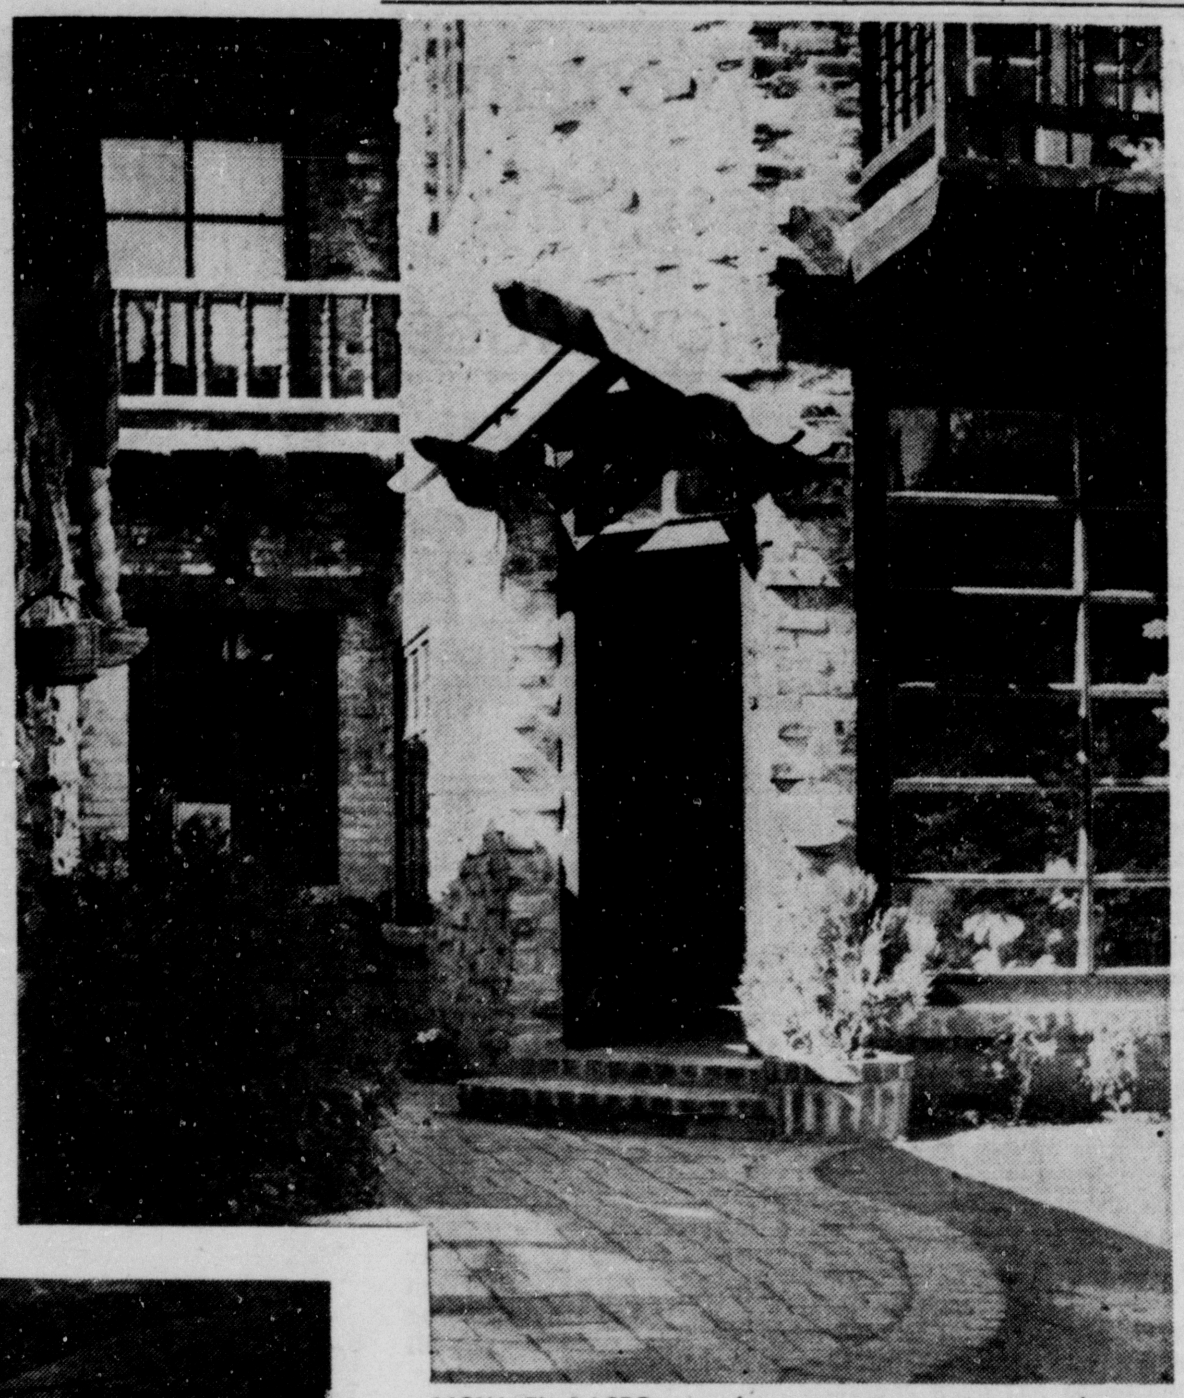
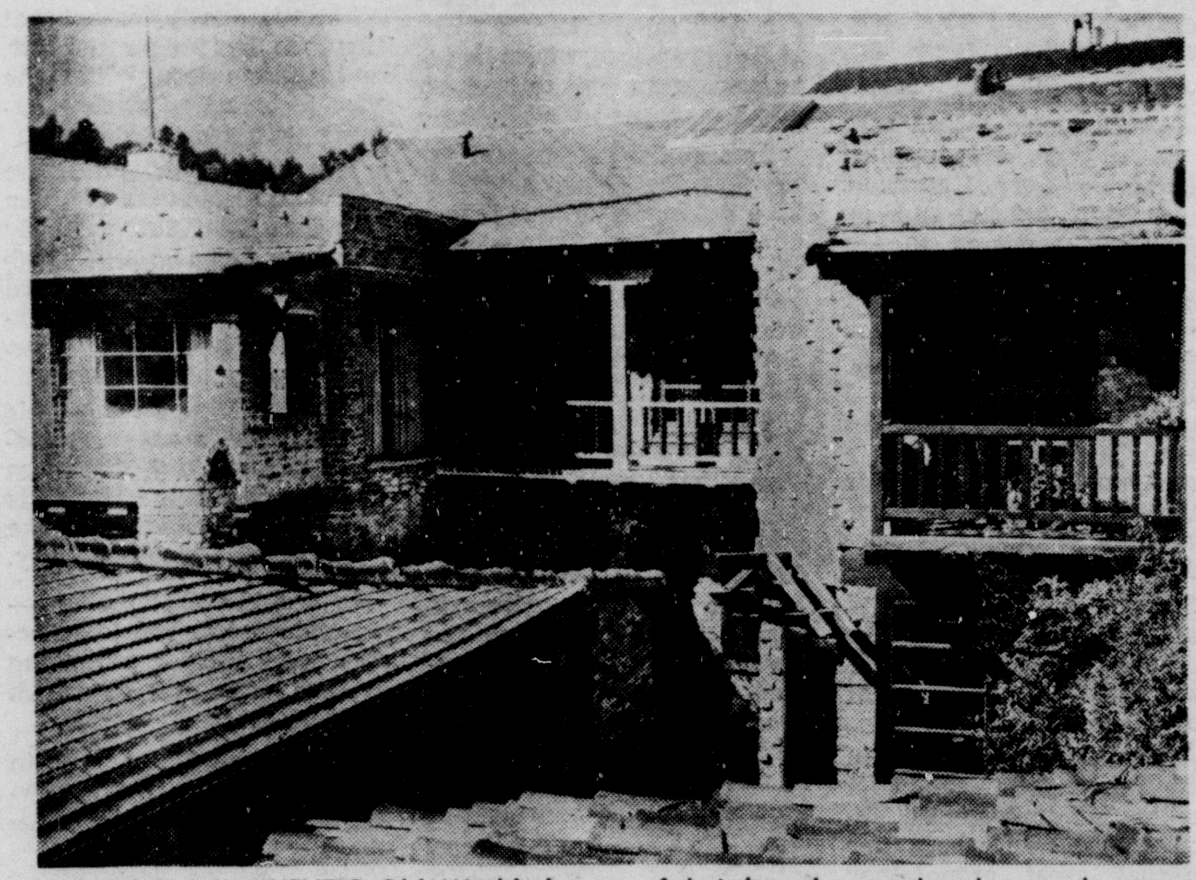
THIS NARROW three-storied building on the corner opposite Mill Valley's Outdoor Art Clubhouse and grounds was an eyesore that challenged Mrs. Henry S. Foster who bought it because she couldn't stand the ugliness.



NOW EL PASEO stands as a monument to what one woman can accomplish when she sets out to add beauty to her community. Hand-carved bannisters and naturally weathered and hand-hewn beams were among the details Mrs. Foster used to create an atmosphere in El Paso that is reminiscent of the old California missions.

THE ARCADE at El Paseo leading from Throckmorton Avenue to Sunnyside Avenue has the air of a street in old Spain. Walks were purposely sunk to suggest years of wear.

GARDEN SPOTS, patios and wayside shrines add to the beauty of El Paseo which is widely known for its Old World charm, its architectural originality and its artistic merit. In addition, it is a very practical piece of business property.



AMONG THE AUTHENTIC Old World details Mrs. Foster worked into the El Paseo were the roof tiles from Guatemala, made as the Indians had made them for centuries by shaping them over the upper part of their bare legs so that they are larger at one end. The tiles were first used in the Guatemala building at the International Exposition on Treasure Island and Mrs. Foster bought them after the fair closed.

Mill Valley Woman Turns Ugliness Into Charming Showplace

But She's As Shrewd In Business As She Is Romantic At Heart

EARLY Americana appeals particularly to Mrs. Henry S. Foster, shown here seated in an antique chair in her Mill Valley home with a spinning wheel in the background. The pre-Revolutionary War tea set has different cups for tea and coffee, but only one kind of large bowl-shaped saucer to be used when drinking both beverages. (Independent-Journal photo) leading from Throckmorton Avenue to Sunnyside Avenue.

Lending authenticity to the structure patterned after the old California missions and similar places in Carmel, Santa Barbara and Palo Alto are such details as naturally weathered and hand hewn beams, doors like those designed by Franciscan monks, hand-wrought latches and hinges that are replicas of those in old Mexican cathedrals, hand-cut champagne bottle insets in doors and windows, wayside shrines, purposely sunken walks to suggest years of wear, and roof tiles from Guatemala made as the Indians had made them, shaping them over the upper part of their bare legs so they are larger at one end.

The words of a favorite poem of Mrs. Foster express how successfully the old world atmosphere has been captured:

"How long the quiet shadows lie!
Was that the wind's low-whispered sigh . . .
Or padres' sandals shuffling by . . . "

Not satisfied with having created architectural beauty, Edna Foster, in a characteristic fashion, set out to provide the less tangible aspects of the beautiful by making El Paseo a home for the fine arts of painting, sculpture, music and dance by sponsoring art festivals.

When El Paseo opened in 1941 with an exhibit of 2,000 paintings, 5,000 people visited it.

"It was so successful," said Mrs. Foster, "that Mrs. Norman Livermore told me it had encouraged her in her work at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

"This was the first time Mill Valley had been associated with art shows and exhibits. Since then we have had five festivals in El Paseo, and, of course, the town is becoming more and more known for art activities."

The same love of time-honored things is everywhere evident in the Fosters' large old English style home at 175 Hillside Avenue, which they have occupied for 31 years. It is a veritable treasure house of antiques.

THERE IS everything from a bowl dating back to 2,000 B.C. and a solid mahogany bedroom set from Napoleon's palace at Versailles to the comparatively recent early Americana such as a spinning wheel and exquisite dishes and silver.

"Our nieces and nephews call our home 'Aunt Edna's museum'," she laughed, "but I don't collect things just because they are old the way many antique fanciers do. I'm not interested in anything that is not beautiful as well as old."

Nor is everything in the house antique, for there are many examples of Mrs. Foster's other enthusiasms, such as plants, a St. Francis shrine, objects like the unique music-box wine decanter she picked up on her trip to Europe this year—and many, many paintings, especially of animals. Needless to say, they are realistic. There is no modern art.

Another characteristic for which Mrs. Foster is widely known is her interest in politics and her staunch Republicanism.

She was women's vice president of the Marin Republican Central Committee during two of the 12 years she was a member, and she was also on the State Republican Committee. Active in Pro America since 1941, she was its chairman for two years and on its state board for four years, and she served as vice president of the Marin Taxpayers Assn. when it was organized.

People, young and old, are her hobby, too, and there's many a person in the town who has reason to be grateful for her help, especially in times of emergency. Some even regard her as a second mother.

Inquiry into Mrs. Foster's background revealed some of the reasons why she is a great believer in individual initiative and responsibility, private enterprise and hard work.

Born in Ashland, Ore., in 1894, Edna Deming was the only child of Edwin E. Deming—related on his father's side to the poet Oliver Wendell Holmes — and Jennie Smith Deming, a member of a pioneer California family.

Her father was originally a school teacher but became a farmer when the family moved, after five years in Michigan, to Napa, Calif., when Edna was 7 years old.

They lived 10 miles out in the country so that Edna had to ride horseback to and from school over a route that required opening and closing 13 gates.

"I loved my horse and taught him to stand so that I didn't have to get on and off to handle those gates. Actually I grew up with animals for friends more than people," she said.

"EXCEPT FOR one year I lived with an uncle and aunt in Santa Cruz and attended high school there, I attended Napa High School and on graduating went on to the University of California at Berkeley.

"I had edited the high school newspaper two years, and I thought for a time I wanted to be a writer, but when I learned there was a scarcity and great demand for teachers of home economics, I decided to major in that field."

She was a member of Psi chapter of Alpha Delta Pi sorority and of Alpha Nu, honorary society in nutrition at the university.

After her graduation in 1916 Edna took her first teaching job at Fortuna, California, the town where her maternal great grandfather and great grandmother had settled when they came across the plains in a covered wagon.

She taught there two years, then went to Petaluma, where she taught three more years, running the school cafeteria, too. She had her girls cook in family size portions so that what they cooked could be served in the cafeteria.

Through mutual friends she met Henry Simpson Foster, who worked in the music department of a stationery and music store in Petaluma, and in 1921 after he returned from World War I they were married, and he resumed this work until they bought a prune and walnut ranch in Santa Rosa.

When a disastrous freeze ruined their orchards a year and a half later, they moved to Berkeley, and Foster took a position as assistant manager with the Parker Pen Co. in San Francisco, where he remained until he retired as office manager in 1952.

As a student at the university Mrs. Foster had belonged to a hiking club that came often to Marin County, and she had learned to love Mill Valley so much that in 1924 when they found they could trade their ranch for a house opposite Old Mill school on Lovell Avenue, they immediately seized the opportunity.

Soon Mrs. Foster was participating in many town activities and even became president of the Old Mill Parent-Teacher Assn., an extraordinary circumstance since the Fosters had no children, though a nephew, Art Foster, lived with them at various times, and there were always lots of children of neighbors around the house.

SHE AND HER husband became very much interested immediately in the cause of preserving Mill Valley's natural beauty and as a first step contributed to a fund novelist Kathleen Norris and her brother, Fred Thompson, were raising to add several acres to Old Mill Park.

Mrs. Foster joined the Outdoor Art Club, serving as its garden section chairman for five years and literary chairman two years. She was also one of the founders of the Mill Valley Community Church and was first vice president and program chairman of its women's organization, the Triple C, two different years.

She first became interested in property when her father traded his ranch for four houses in Mill Valley, and she helped him with their management, but since starting with El Paseo in 1936 her own building ventures have taken all her time to the extent that they are her major interest, and she no longer has the time to be active in organizations, with two exceptions.

She belongs to and is the current president of the San Francisco Tea Club, a purely social luncheon group founded 66 years ago, and is still active in Pro America, having been on its board of directors 20 years.

Her first trip to Europe this year whetted a natural appetite for travel, and she hopes to do more, though she finds business responsibilities make it difficult for her to get away.

ONE FAVORITE hobby — gardening—has had to be replaced by flower arranging because it required too much physical exertion.

Non-sectarian, she likes to visit various churches, believing that each has its own values.

"I would like to believe in reincarnation," she said wistfully, "just because I'd like to think there would be another chance to do all the things I want to do."

CORTE MADERA

THE BIG DEAL at dance studios in Marin and throughout the nation these days is learning the new dance, the twist. Just about every student wants to master it. And Gordon Strawbridge of Tiburon, former mayor of Mill Valley, is no exception, as he tells his instructor, Billie Rae, of the Arthur Murray Dance Studio staff in San Rafael.

STRAWBRIDGE and his teacher begin the basic side to side twist step. He stands with feet apart, leans to one side, and twists his hips in count with the music.

IT'S A FUN DANCE

You're The Life Of The Party When You Can Do 'The Twist'

The horns, confetti and funny hats at this weekend's New Year's parties will look pretty much the same as in the past. But one new thing will be added.

It's a dance—the twist. And just about everyone who dances seems to be doing it these days.

Marin, dance studios here report, is no exception.

THE BIG CLAMOR right now, they say, is for instruction in the twist. And instructors are kept busy answering calls to private parties to teach the dance.

Unlike other recent dance fads, the popularity of the twist is not restricted to the teen-agers.

"People of all ages seem to go for it," the studio directors say. Teen-agers, they add, may exaggerate the steps and movements while adults may be a bit more conservative and subtle in their approach to the dance. But, basically they are doing the same dance.

The twist, the experts say, is definitely not a technical dance. It is a "fun dance" and an "interpretative dance."

The instructors describe it as a composite of a number of dances that enjoyed popularity in the past including the Charleston, the shag, the rock 'n' roll and the jitterbug.

HAVING BEEN in the limelight for a number of weeks now, the twist is still going strong, the experts say. There is no sign as yet that the craze is dying—at least not in Marin.

Here are the basic instructions as provided by one San Rafael dance studio — the Arthur Murray Dance Studio on Miracle Mile:

To learn the twist motion, stand with feet apart, knees slightly bent and twist the hips with every drum beat of the music. Count in repeats of 1, 2, 3, 4 as you practice.

Twist left hip forward with right hip back on count 1; twist right hip forward with left hip back on count 2, and continue this alternating movement.

In the basic side to side twist step, the man puts weight on his left foot, twisting for four counts. His partner does the same except she starts with weight on opposite foot. At the end of four counts, both shift weight to their other foot and again twist for four counts. This is repeated several times.

In the basic forward and backward twist step, the man steps forward on left foot, places his weight on that foot and twists in place for four counts. Meanwhile his partner steps back on her right foot, places her weight on it, and twists for four counts. Both then maintain their foot position, but shift weight back to the other foot and again twist in place for four counts. This is repeated several times.

When the dancers become proficient, they bend deep in the position in which their weight is placed.

The twist chase is a fancier part of the dance.

From the side-by-side position, both partners turn one-quarter to their left, place weight on their left feet and twist in place for four counts. Then, maintaining the same foot position, the partners swivel half way around to their right, place weight on their right feet and twist in place for four counts (the woman is now behind her partner). This is repeated several times.

THEN THERE'S the tick tock twist, an arm movement added to the forward and backward step. The arms swing from an outstretched position so as to cross in front. On count 1, the hands are outstretched. On count 2, arms are crossed in front. On count 3, hands are about 24 inches apart. And on count 4, the dancers return to the count 2 position.

The whip is another arm movement to be done with the forward and backward step. Each partner swings the right arm in the air as though whipping a lariat into position. This is done once every eight counts.

So there you are—the fundamentals of the twist. Go to it, this New Year's weekend. Be the life of the party. And if your sacroiliac is a bit the worse for the wear the morning after, blame it all on one Chubby Checkers. He's the guy, they say, who started it all.

"CAN SIMULATED LEATHER BE DRYCLEANED?"

Simulated leather is a term used to describe a synthetic resin coated fabric that looks like, feels like and is as pliable as genuine leather. There are many varieties and qualities of simulated leathers frequently combined with one or more woven fabrics. Your satisfaction depends upon the fabric combinations and garment construction.

Simulated leather skirts, coats or jackets that are not lined will wet-clean satisfactorily. Simulated leather garments combined with fabrics that can be wet-cleaned may be wet-cleaned, but if the trim or lining fabrics will shrink, they cannot be wet-cleaned.

Drycleaning, on the other hand will remove the solvent-soluble carrier that is used to resin-coat these fabrics. When that is gone, it cannot be replaced. Therefore, even though the fabric combined with simulated leather may be drycleanable, the simulated leather, itself, cannot be drycleaned.

Whenever your simulated leather garment needs cleansing, take it to your professional drycleaner and rely upon his expert opinion about how it should be handled.

4 Symbols Of Human Courage

Poster Patients Offer Inspiration For Dimes Drive

Four courageous Marin County residents — living examples of what National Foundation funds can do — have banded together to act as living symbols of the 1962 March of Dimes.

The quartet is made up of two wives, a College of Marin student and a third grader, and they are the "Poster Patients" who will act as leaders and symbols for Marin County's phase of the national fund-raising campaign which begins Tuesday and will be concluded on Jan. 31.

Mrs. Richard Troup of Novato, Mrs. Dewey Barefoot of Strawberry, Byron Trott, the College of Marin freshman from San Rafael, and little Wendy Jo Springstead of San Rafael are the members of the foursome, and whether in wheelchairs, on crutches or wearing a leg brace, they plan to be exceedingly active for the March of Dimes.

THE FOUR POSTER PATIENTS whose courage will serve as the inspiration for workers in Marin County's 1962 March of Dimes campaign are, left to right, Mrs. Richard Troup of Novato, Byron Trott of San Rafael, Mrs. Dewey Barefoot of Strawberry and little Wendy Jo Springstead of San Rafael. Three have fought back against the ravages of polio while young Trott is a victim of rheumatoid arthritis. (Independent-Journal photo)

EACH OF THE "Poster Patients" has personally experienced one of the ravaging diseases the March of Dimes money helps combat, and each has been the recipient of financial, psychological and physical help.

Byron is a victim of rheumatoid arthritis, while Mrs. Troup, Mrs. Barefoot and Wendy Jo are "polios." The third of the crippling diseases under fire from the National Foundation-March of Dimes is birth defects.

Each has an unusual—yet strikingly similar — story to tell about how they were stricken, how they fought back, and how they are now working together to invite others throughout Marin County to fight back.

Wendy Jo, the 8-year-old who is in the third grade at Sun Valley School in San Rafael, was stricken with polio in 1954 when she was an infant. She lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Springstead, and four brothers at 222 Alpine, and she doesn't allow the need to wear a leg brace to prevent her from skipping rope, playing house or having fun with the other 8-year-olds.

She is a petite child with golden hair and a piquant face, quiet but alert as she watches the grown-ups and listens to them talk. She has received March of Dimes aid since 1956.

Byron, the embryo artist who refuses to allow crutches to prevent him from participating in school activities and who wants to be an interior designer, was stricken 10 years ago, at the age of 9.

He has had a series of operations to straighten his legs and obtain additional function in his hips, and, in fact, is recuperating from the latest surgery as he enters in all the March of Dimes activities. He lives with his parents and sister at 8 Pigeon Hollow Road, San Rafael.

Mrs. Barefoot, the wife of a student minister at the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary in Strawberry, was stricken by polio in 1949 and spent six months at the National Foundation's Warm Springs, Ga., facility.

Despite being confined to a wheelchair, she was graduated from Ouachita College in Arkadelphia, Ark., before she and her husband moved to Marin. Currently she keeps busy painting photographs and doing similar handwork that requires deftness and patience.

SHE HAS BEEN attending classes at the California Rehabilitation Center in Vallejo learning typing, shorthand and bookkeeping under the state vocational rehabilitation program, and hopes to get a job when she has completed her courses.

The fourth "Poster Patient," Edith Troup, suffered the onslaught of polio in 1953, and she, too, refuses to allow confinement in a wheelchair to keep her from her sewing and her housework, and helping her husband in the raising of their daughter, Pamela, 13, an eighth grader at Hill School in Novato.

Mrs. Troup and her husband, a retired Army captain, are deeply interested in working with teen-agers, and Richard Troup has accepted the responsibility of adult teen adviser in the March of Dimes.

"When you see people like these four, and you see how eager they are to help others, you realize the true benefits of the March of Dimes," says William Wolfson, Marin chairman for the drive. "As far as we know, this is the first time there has been more than one 'Poster Patient,' but with people like our foursome, this idea will probably spread throughout the country."

Our Aged Need Fun In Lives

And Progressive Rest Homes See That They Get It

By CHARLES PENDLETON

In some civilizations of ancient times the aged were put to death or allowed to die without any preventative measures before they became an unwelcome burden upon society. We view this as barbaric.

But even today there are some, including a few medical scientists, who advance the theory that such a solution to the problem of the aged is the humane approach.

To support that contention they may cite geriatric or welfare hospitals they have visited in which the elderly languish without care or attention.

There is, however, a more enlightened approach to the problem.

Generally, say the experts, there are three categories of care required by the aged.

FIRST, THERE is the "retirement type," elderly folks who require little if any special care. They might well colonize and be housed in individual cottages. Several such communities can be found in California and Arizona. But this "ideal" situation is a more or less "economically select" one.

In the second category are the elderly folk who require frequent care. They are the convalescent and chronically ill aged.

The third group is composed of the totally incapacitated, the completely bedfast patient who requires constant medical and nursing care and who is beyond rehabiliation.

Hospitalization is the only practical solution for the members of that third category, authorities agree. But they will add that there are many persons in the second category who are now hospitalized, but who could be equally well cared for in nursing homes at a substantially lower cost and releasing beds in the general hospitals to those in critical need of such facilities.

A MARIN County physician has estimated that 20 per cent of the long-term patients now in general hospitals would be in good hands in nursing homes.

One difficulty has been insurance requirements, but changes are in the wind there that could allow some of the chronically ill patients to be housed in nursing homes.

Another factor, of course, has been the available nursing home space. The number of such homes, however, has been increasing rapidly in recent years. And with this increase has come new problems.

A major problem has been the setting of standards for the quality of care given patients. A concerted, long-term effort has been made to improve these standards of the nursing homes or convalescent hospitals as they are sometimes called.

In this state, the California Commission of Nursing Homes and Related Facilities has notified the some 4,000 such establishments of its planned program for accreditation, similar to that already in operation for general and medical hospitals. The first nursing home in California to receive this accreditation was a Marin County institution, the Center Medical Hospital, located on Professional Parkway Center in Terra Linda.

The California commission is sponsored by five professional groups—The California Medical Assn., the California Hospital Assn., the California Dental Assn., the Southern California State Dental Assn., and the California Assn. of Nursing Homes Sanitariums, Rest Homes and Homes for the Aged, Inc. The commission is not a state agency. The objective in its accreditation program is to appraise the available health resources of the aged and develop standards to provide and foster the best possible care for the aged. Nursing homes or convalescent hospitals seeking this accreditation must undergo a rigorous and comprehensive survey nearly identical to that of a general hospital.

EXAMINING briefly what an aged person can expect in a nursing home such as the Center Medical Hospital, let's take a composite history of several patients and call this, "the case of Mrs. Y."

Mrs. Y suffered a stroke. There had been some brain damage and nearly all of one side of her body was paralyzed. She was completely bed-ridden when she came to the Center Medical Hospital.

Round-the-clock nursing care was required under the supervision of a physician. Registered nurses are always in charge of the nursing care. And an occupational therapist is on the staff of the Center Medical Hospital. As soon as Mrs. Y showed signs of improvement, under the directions of the attending physician, she was given treatment by the occupational therapist.

Initially, Mrs. Y could not care for herself to any degree. She was a widow living with a married daughter who worked and had three small children. Obviously, the daughter could not provide the necessary care Mrs. Y required.

Slowly, carefully, each day there was small improvement. Then came the day that Mrs. Y was able to brush her teeth. Then, a short while later, she could put her own robe on. Eventually, a few cautious steps, with the aid of a walker, always under the supervision of a nurse, the therapist or both. Again, later, the great day when Mrs. Y could dress herself completely and walk alone down the hall to the patio and a chair in the sun.

This was the greatest therapy of all!

The Center Medical Hospital is the only convalescent hospital in the Bay Area to retain the services of an occupational therapist on its staff. This rehabilitation program is a stride forward in the history of nursing homes or geriatric hospital. No longer are these homes simply a place for aged people to sit, staring vacantly and await the end.

Nationally there are over 16 million persons over the age of 65. If the trend continues, they will number 20 million by 1970. There is an ugly side to this picture:

Over 20 per cent of these people make up the new admissions to our mental hospitals. This is the period of life that has the greatest suicide rate of any age group. And of course, they fill our hospitals for the chronically ill, our nursing homes and our county hospitals, and preoccupy our home nursing programs.

The mere fact these people are aged doesn't account for these facts. They have been socially segregated, simply because they are old.

The enlightened operators of nursing homes and convalescent hospitals have realized these facts and have tried to do something about it. Recreation programs have been initiated. Volunteer and auxiliary groups have been organized. Nursing home operators have formed their own professional organizations and marched along on an organized basis of study and research

Once more, let's check Center Medical Hospital's volunteer groups and some of their activities.

Patients in groups or singly enjoy being read to. Magazines, newspapers, books, are immensely enjoyed by the patients when read by the volunteers. Daily these volunteers come into Center Medical Hospital and help out the staff. Sometimes they just sit with the patients and talk or listen. It's wonderful just to have someone to talk to, they say. This is therapy, too.

Each month there is a birthday party for everyone having a birthday that month. Candles are lit and blown out, and, though it seems a simple thing, it helps a lot to bolster sagging spirits, especially when a tube of shaving cream or a new lipstick, brightly wrapped, is handed out.

Once a week, there is a songfest. One of the patients plays the piano. One or more volunteers help wheel the patients into the recreation room. Some of them sing, others listen. But singing or listening, you can note the enjoyment of hearing the old hymns, the old favorites, on their faces.

Junior volunteers do a big job at Center Medical Hospital. They help feed patients. They help pass out trays. They play games with the patients —games like Chinese or regular checkers, cards or talking games.

Speaking of trays and feeding, when asked about how many different diets the chef had to cater to, owner-operator James Moore laughingly threw up his hands and said 48, the total capacity of Center Medical Hospital. He explained that an average occupancy of the facility would include nephritic (kidney malfunction) or heart patients, terminal cancer cases, which require an almost totally liquid diet. Intravenous feeding, even nasal feeding is done frequently. Every type of diet from 1,000 or less to 3,000 calories per day is prepared. The chef must really plan ahead to provide the varied and unusual foods required for 48 different patients three times daily.

BUT BACK to the volunteers — they must be trained, too. The volunteers are a major contribution in the rehabilitation of aged people in a nursing home or convalescent hospital.

Some of this training includes arts and crafts.

Stringing of beads by a semi-paralyzed patient aids materially in the rehabilitation of that patient. Loom weaving, painting, beadwork are all important aids to a happy, busy convalescence or rehabilitation. More importantly, this type of recreation, or rehabilitation if you please, brings fun back into what had been a bleak and dreary life.

Fun is something we must have to survive and an eminent psychiatrist declared, "to the extent that we do not have fun, we die."

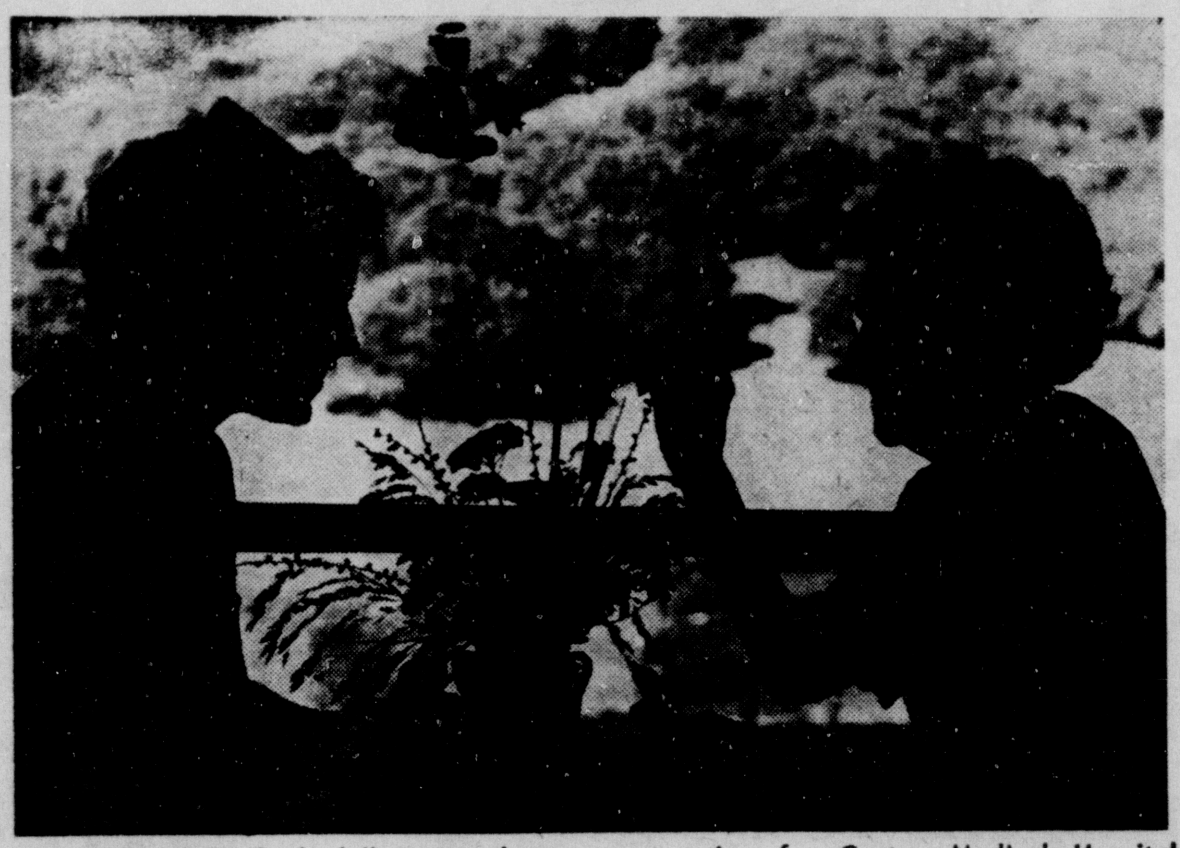
AN IMPORTANT member of the staff at the Center Medical Hospital nursing home is Mrs. Catherine Bay, chef, shown here readying a tray for a patient. Almost every patient in the home has special dietary requirements that must be satisfied. See Pages M-12 and M-13 for more photos.



MRS. ABIGAIL ELLIS gleefully tosses down two pair and wins from Junior Red Cross girl Marlene Keelin. Games like cards, checkers and such are high on the list of recreation for Center Medical Hospital patients who look forward to the daily visits from the junior volunteer girls. Theater For Kids Of Marin

Junior Program Has Grown Into An Institution

By CONNIE BEESON

Marin County Junior Theater has become over its 16 year history on institution in the county. Each year, there are new children, new adult volunteers, new plays, new workshop studies, as this artistic endeavor continues to supplement the education of our youth.

Each year more than 3,000 children have participated in the live theater production program sponsored by Junior Theater. Each of these productions is presented by a professional theater group and is the best available professional theater of today in the area. In addition, thousands of children have been through the free summer workshop program, and have participated in the theater work through local unit groups.

These workshops utilize the help of hundreds of volunteer mothers, and are under the direction of a paid professional director.

"RIP VAN WINKLE" was the 1949 summer workshop presentation of the Ross-Kentfield unit of Marin Junior Theater. The summer workshops have proved to be highly successful, drawing children from throughout the county and enabling them to put on highly finished productions. The workshops are free to all Marin children. They are preceded each year by a winter season of professional plays brought to Marin County by Junior Theater. The first play of this winter's season is "Sleeping Beauty" by the Lesselli Marionettes next Saturday at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. at San Rafael High School.

THROUGH ITS full summer-winter program, Marin County Junior Theater is able to introduce all facets of the theater to children from the first to the eighth grades. It is a program that has drawn wide attention from neighboring communities and other localities and is sometimes cited as one of the reasons why a family chose to locate in "marvelous" Marin.

Junior theater was started at the end of World War II. Children had been deprived of live theater due to gas rationing. A play was therefore brought to Marin County. It was "Hansel and Gretel," put on by the San Francisco Opera Company in Forest Meadows in 1945. More than 3,000 children attended.

The high interest in the theater resulted in the formation of a permanent group called Junior Theater. It was headed by Mrs. Charles White of Ross. Its aim, which has been continuous through its history, is to bring the best of children's professional theater to the youth of Marin County. To participate in theater activities became the second logical step in the theater group's program.

Units were formed in San Rafael, San Anselmo, Ross-Kentfield, Belvedere, Mill Valley, Sausalito, Larkspur and Corte Madera. At the end of the war, in some of these sections the schools were able to take over and present a specialized theater program for the children. Units continuing their own program are operating in Ross-Kentfield-Greenbrae, Sleepy Hollow, Fairfax and Belvedere-Tiburon. Summer workshops in these units draw hundreds of young people each year. They select their productions from the classics as well as original material. They make much of their own scenery and costumes, and learn makeup and lighting as well as play acting. At the end of the summer season, their plays are put on for parents.

"INTEREST expressed in some Marin County areas opens the possibility for the formation of new local units," Mrs. Wallace Painter, president of the Marin County Junior theaters, notes.

Originally, Junior Theater received financial support from the Marin Music Chest through a $200 gift. Today, Junior Theater is completely self-supporting.

Its main fund-raising event for years was the annual Ballet Aquacade, presented at the Roger Kent garden and pool, and later at the Ann Curtis pool. A sizeable dona-

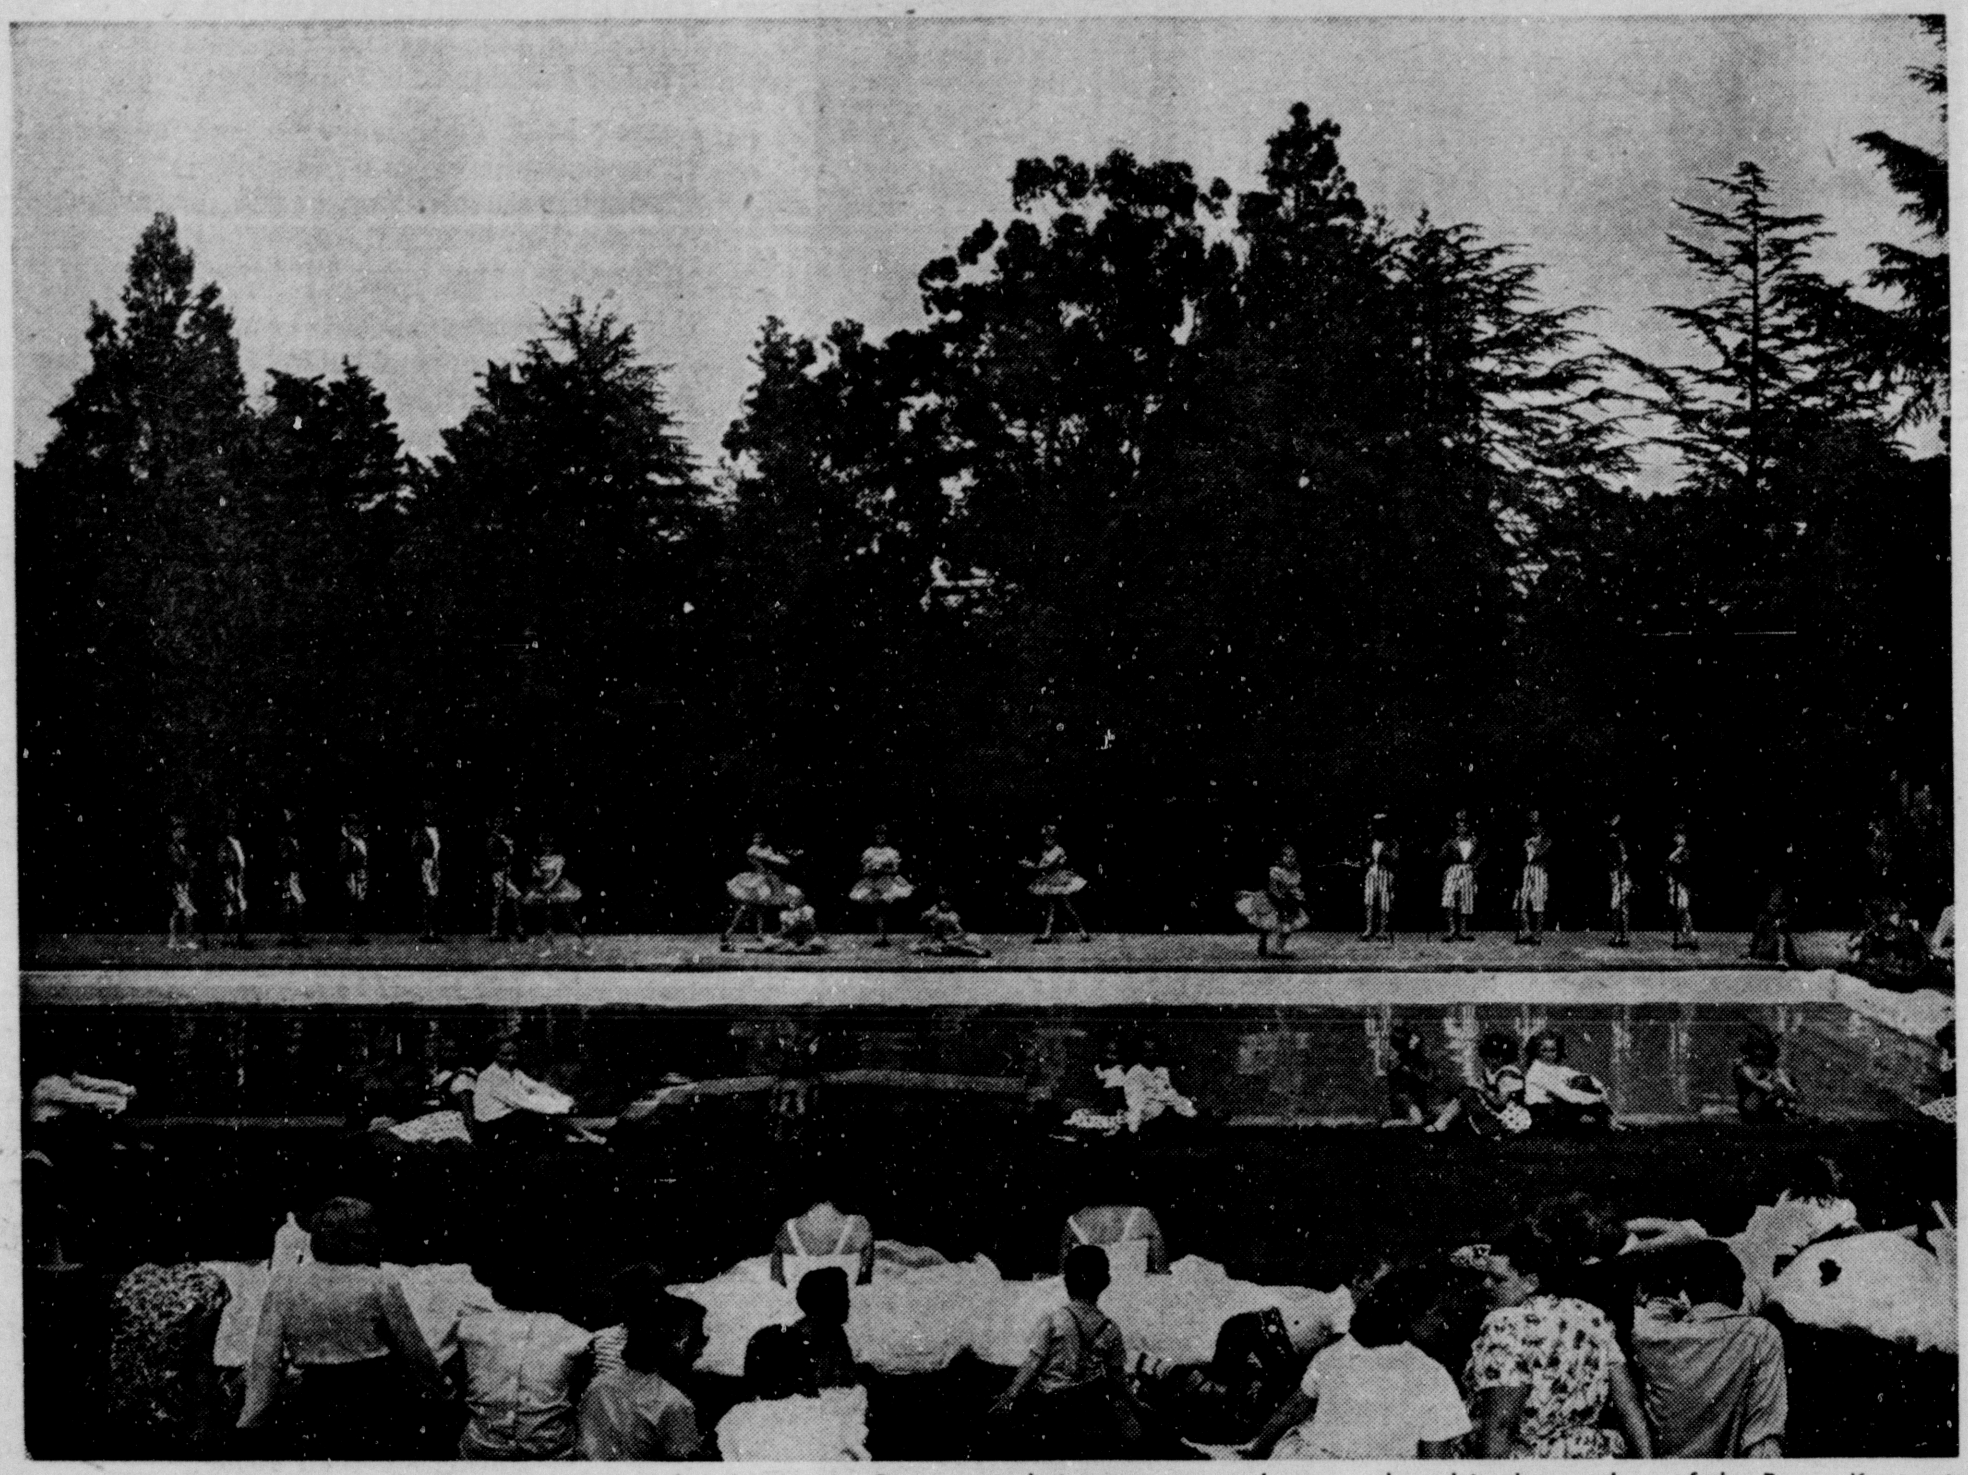
THIS PHOTOGRAPH taken 16 years ago shows the early organizers of the Marin County Junior Theater. The idea which attracted the large turnout was to provide Marin County children with a taste of quality theater, both through summer workshops and in viewing professional productions brought to the county. That is still the objective of the organization.



THE BALLET AQUACADE was for years sponsored by the Marin County Junior Theater and always drew capacity crowds. Here 500 children and their parents are shown gathered in the gardens of the Roger Kent estate at Kent Woodlands for one of the earliest of those productions.

WHAT'S NEW IN STEREO

Andre Previn Again Demonstrates His Versatility

By JOHN SUNIER

Andre Previn is equally adept as an arranger, composer, conductor, concert pianist and jazz man.

He has done the musical scores to some 32 Hollywood films. His concert appearance in San Francisco last year was highly unusual in that he appeared as piano soloist in classical repertory for the first half of the program, and then switched to jazz, accompanied by his other trio members, for the second half of the program.

Here are two new Columbia Stereodiscs that present a close recorded approximation of the unorthodox recital:

HINDEMITH: Sonata No. 3; SAMUEL BARBER: Four Excursions; FRANK MARTIN: Prelude No. 7—Andre Previn —MS 6239: The sonata is the major work, both in length and in fine performance, on this disc. Its four movements combine elements of the baroque suite with elements of the classical piano sonata. The Barber pieces are light and whimsical, but Previn's performance of theme is just a little stiff. The title refers to "excursions" into regional American folk idioms.

Fiddles and harmonicas are instantly recognizable in the final excursion, a swinging barn dance. The piano sound is good, but my copy had a great deal of surface noise.

A TOUCH OF ELEGANCE —Andre Previn, his piano and his orchestra in The Music of Duke Ellington—CS 8449. Not really jazz, but really Duke Ellington (except for the title tune, Previn's own composition), and presented in another voice entirely from the Duke's own inimitable style.

"The worst you could do would be to try to imitate Duke," says Andre. His new concept is smooth, neat, listenable, and altogether one of the best "piano and strings" type album I've ever heard. The Duke's wonderful melodies and harmonies are left pretty much intact in Previn's arrangements, and the royal personage even honored his interpreter with a brand new tune composed just for the occasion, "Le Sucrier Velours." Naturally, such favorites as "Satin Doll," "Perdido," and "Sophisticated Lady" are also included.

Andre's homage to Duke is an elegant album that will bear continued listening.

DISPLAYING some of the props used in past summer workshop plays of the Marin County Junior Theater are the presidents of two of the units — Mrs. Eugene Murray of the Belvedere unit, left, and Mrs. Douglas Pease of the Ross-Kentfield-Greenbrae unit.

SO THAT CHILDREN of Marin will be assured a full year of good theater, volunteers of Marin County Junior Theater gather annually for their sherry tea at the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere. Plans discussed at the 1961 tea included the series of five plays that make up the new winter program, and the free summer workshop wherein the volunteers help the children to put on plays of their own.

Another Year Of Junior Theater

tion has been given each year to Marin County General Hospital. Inspiration for the Ballet Aquacade and its choreographer is Mrs. Ralston W. Hodgson of Ross.

The Ballet Aquacade will be, in the future, a fund-raising event solely for the hospital. Junior Theater will concentrate on its five-play winter season and its free summer workshop. The plays are given at the San Rafael High School with two performances on each of five Saturdays, at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. A nominal admission fee (50 cents) is charged to help cover costs.

THE 1962 SERIES opens next Saturday with two performances of "The Sleeping Beauty" by the Lesselli Marionettes in the high school auditorium.

Last year a new auxiliary unit of Junior Theater was launched. This is an adult group of 35 women who call themselves the Masque Unit. The unit is made up of women who have had theater experience and it draws from all areas of Marin County. It will put on one of the five 1962 winter plays in late March—"The Pale Pink Dragon." The group is under the direction of Mrs. W. Malone of Novato. Production manager and inspiration of this group is Mrs. James Heneyman of Belvedere.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

'V' FOR VICTORY

What "summer soldiers" seek to mark new vaults
With small white marble symbols to reward
Our war-lost children with their sheltered kin?

Do they descend from you men who declared
When time ran out, and choices dropped to two:
"Give us our liberty or give us death?"

Fear cannot drive free Christians underground,
Or bury liberty, unsanctified,
Beneath the heartland of her peaceful home.

No megathons can mute the softer song
Of church bells, summoning the world to pray
For every baby born since time began.

No church, cathedral, synagogue or mosque
Contains a single panic button to be pushed.
Leave atheists their catacombs and caves.

The spokes of God's great wheel lead to his hub,
The center of all love and peace and power,
Since time and space first formed what we call home.

Faith is the certain catalyst for peace.
"Blessed are the peacemakers: For they Shall be called the children of God."

Leave atheists their choice: To grub for worms,
Or hawk the heroin of sterile dreams
Through nascent nations, soon to spread their sings
And soar beside us in the friendly air
Of freedom's open skies.

God goes by many names in many lands,
And true believers will out-love, out-laugh,
Out-last and overthrow the would-be power
Of all the graven images conceived
By all the atheists upon this earth
Till time runs down, and heaven holds us all.

Long John Introduces You To His Way-Out Acquaintances

THE WAY OUT WORLD by Long John Nebel, Prentice-Hall Inc., 225 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Long John Nebel is a colorful character whose career has taken him into many fields, the latest of them an unusual radio show in New York City that starts at midnight and runs until dawn. To this he has recently added a television show.

His specialties are interviews of and freewheeling discussions with such oddities as people who claim to have had contact with flying saucer crews from outer space, medical quacks, zany inventors, students of extra-sensory perception, spiritualists, practitioners of the occult, fortune tellers, "psychic doctors" and similar con men, fanatics and "way out" people.

In this book Nebel introduces you to some of the oddest of those oddballs along with a sprinkling of serious scholars and debunkers. His own attitude is one of healthy skepticism. But he admits that he hasn't come up with the answers for several of his guests and their weird performances.

His style is breezy and often ungrammatical. The editing is extremely loose. But the subject matter is fascinating. Once you start your acquaintanceship with the strange friends of Long John and their bizarre beliefs, you will find it difficult to interrupt your reading.

DISORDERLY HOUSES by Alan Ansen, Wesleyan University Press, 85 pages, $1.25. Reviewed by Paul Miller.

For too many of today's "poets" the use of meter, rhyme, consistency of tone, and discipline within one of the highest of disciplines is square.

The modern mania for expressionism by authors, painters, poets and musicians, allows too many crackpots in the side door, so to speak. Picasso proved himself in draftmanship before he experimented and then established; so has T. S. Eliot. But poet Alan Ansen has not, if "Disorderly Houses" is the extent of his work.

Eliot and Picasso play tricks on readers and viewers now and then, but Ansen and his contemporaries do not seem to know themselves when they write in trickery or when they do not.

"Disorderly Houses'" jacket asserts that it would "not be accurate to call Mr. Ansen a 'beat' poet . . ." That is true. Although he is probably more literate and formally educated than all of them, he does not have as much to say as several of them, nor does he say it as well.

Ansen's work is irritating because a reader feels the poet is throwing every experimental device he has in his bag toward the effort; the work is irritating because it gives the impression that it too must include other than English words in English poems; that it too must encompass the world and refer to Greek mythological characters as well as Bunsen Burners; that it too must include the many-syllable words to show sophistication and the one-syllable, GI words to show well-rounded knowledge.

WESTERN ROUNDUP, edited by Nelson Nye, Macmillan Co. 222 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

"Western Roundup" is a collection of short stories by members of the Western Writers of America. It contains 17 stories by 17 writers.

These 17 have taken the opportunity to present stories they like—and probably, in some cases, stories that were a little too off-beat for the magazines to which they usually sell.

Among the more off-beat—in very different ways — are the opening story, "Only Good Ones," by Elmore Leonard, and the third-from-last, "Due Process," by Steve Frazee.

"Only Good Ones" is a stark and sensitive tale, a bit reminiscent of Marinite Walter van Tilburg Clark's "Ox-Bow Incident." "Due Process" is dead-pan hilarity.

The rest of the stories range from some very like what appeared in Western Story Magazine and Ace-High in the dear, dead days of the pulps to others that are strictly slick-paper.

All are several notches above the slow-walk-to-a-showdown that is the standard formula of the writers for television. Some don't even have any shooting.

If you like westerns, you should enjoy this volume.

An Artist Gives Colorful Treatment To Frontier Life

FRONTIER LIVING by Edwin Tunis, World Publishing Co., Cleveland, Ohio; 166 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Dick Steinheimer.

"Frontier Living" is the one-man production of Shawan, Md., artist Edwin Tunis.

And a rare man he must be!

Playing writer, artist and editor, Tunis has produced a well done set of documentary sketches of life in the new frontiers of America . . . the frontiers that once were the Atlantic seaboard and two hundred years later the Pacific Coast.

Biting into the subject of frontier life and manners he begins with the early settlements around Jamestown Island, Va. in 1607. Here he launches into an illustrated lecture on separate subjects of cabins, guns, life in the woods, etc.

Successive sections showing life as the frontiers advanced are treated in the same way, making up in detail and interest what such arbitrary characterization might lose in coverage.

For example: The term "Indian summer" he claims has been said to originate in the early days of settler-Indian battles when a warm thaw after the first few frosts and snows could mean time for an indian attack. Normally the Indians ranged only in warmer weather and the settlers considered themselves safe from major assault after winter set in, with the exceptions of said "Indian summer" periods.

He also suggests that the term 'hit the nail on the head" was as much of a backwoods marksman line as it was of any carpenters.

The reason being that a nail head was the standard shooting target for such gay occasions as marriages and other social gatherings. In shooting against his fellow woodsman for a prize, be it a jug or a fat turkey, the men would use a nail, popping at it from the distance of 60 yards.

The tale is told that all 130 woodsmen who accompanied Capt. Michael Cresap to Boston in 1776 could put nineteen of 20 bullets within an inch of such a nail.

The process of "hating out" also is outlined, which perhaps even has some modern connotations. When a group of settlers felt one of their band deserved punishment for a minor offense the treatment of "hating out," or loudly cutting the other person at every occasion was utilized.

Somehow the problem of horse thieves is reminiscent of the current auto thefts.

Summary: For the price tag one could hardly go wrong with the well done volume. Publishers say for 10 years and older, and it's quite true.

THE ANNALS OF MURDER by Thomas M. McDade, University of Oklahoma Press, 357 pages, $15. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent Thomas M. McDade, now a business executive, has undertaken the formidable task of compiling a bibliography of books and pamphlets relating to American murders from colonial times to 1900.

He has amassed a total of 1,126 titles ranging from such obscure cases as several in which slaves rebelled against their chains and killed their masters to such "celebrated" homicides as the axe slayings of Andrew and Abby Borden and the fiendish crimes of the sinister Bender family.

His labors will be of interest and value primarily to those engaged in research, not only into the specific field of homicide, but into their related sociological, legal, political, etc., aspects. For murder and murder trials have always excited the public imagination. And the result has been a reporting in greater detail than has resulted from other crimes and events.

Non-scholars, too, will be interested in McDade's introductory remarks on murder and murder trials, and in his explanatory notes that accompany each listing. But that interest will hardly be sufficient to justify spending the $15 price tag that has been put on the book.

THE SHADOW CATCHER by James D. Horan, Crown Publishin Co., 405 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Barbara Hosmer.

His 18th book, "The Shadow Catcher" is another novel of the American West by James D. Horan who is assistant manager of the New York Journal-American.

This is a lovely, fast-paced tale of a small band who blaze a trail into the Oregon Territory, with young Matt Winters along as the painter assigned to this government expedition. His job is to bring home paintings and drawings that are accurate likenesses of the Indian chiefs and the activities of the Indian nations, hence the term "shadow catcher."

Like many an historical novel, this is a composite tale taken from characters and journals of the real West, and is interesting for its descriptive qualities though hardly profound.

THE SHATTERED SEXES by Loys Masson, Channel Press, 254 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Catherine M. O'Toole.

Whether Loys Masson is the Jules Verne of this generation only the passage of time will determine. Meanwhile, he has written a novel projected into the future that chills the reader with its realism.

Two American convict ships —one carrying 25 men, the other an equal number of women—slowly sailing toward a Pacific atoll and an island prison where the men and women are separated by a barbed wire fence but otherwise under no discipline and with no duties, provide the backdrop for Masson's story. What happens when both guards and prisoners realize that they are part of a scientific-military atomic experiment results in an Atomic Age nightmare.

Masson's book is a tale of horror and repulsion. The reader's first thought is to dismiss it as the ravings of a warped mind. But, in an era that concentrates on fallout shelters as the solution to world tension and neighbor considers shooting neighbor as both seek shelter from skies raining death, the novel cannot be discounted. Today Jules Verne's visionary Nautilus sails the seas. Perhaps Masson's work is also prophetic.

THE GOLDEN DOOR BOOK OF BEAUTY AND HEALTH by Edmond Bordeaux Szekely, Prentice-Hall Inc., 209 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Author Szekely is the founder and director of two health resorts, Rancho La Puerta in Mexico and the Golden Door Beauty Resort in Southern California, widely publicized because of their patronage by Hollywood stars and other celebrities.

Here in this book Szekely presents for the women a program that he says is the equivalent of a two-week stay at the Golden Door Resort.

Covered are diet, exercise, bathing, philosophy of life, cosmetics, relaxation, etc. Low calorie menus and recipes plus some formulas for the preparation of recommended beauty aids in the home are special features.

Earlier books such as those by TV personality Jack LaLanne seem to have covered the same ground on a more practical level for the average housewife. For the woman keenly interested in the health and beauty field, however, this book could have value as a supplementary text.

You, Too, Can Learn The Twist And Join In The Fun At Parties

PERFORMING THE side by side step, student Gordon Strawbridge and his instructor, Billie Rae, alternate an in and out movement, stepping first toward each other and then apart. All the time they are twisting in time to the recording seen spinning in the foreground.

HERE THE TWO dancers have stepped apart and away from each other in the side by side twist movement also seen in the preceding photograph. Note the arm movement.

THIS MANEUVER is called "the chase." The two dancers will then change direction and the woman will pursue the man.

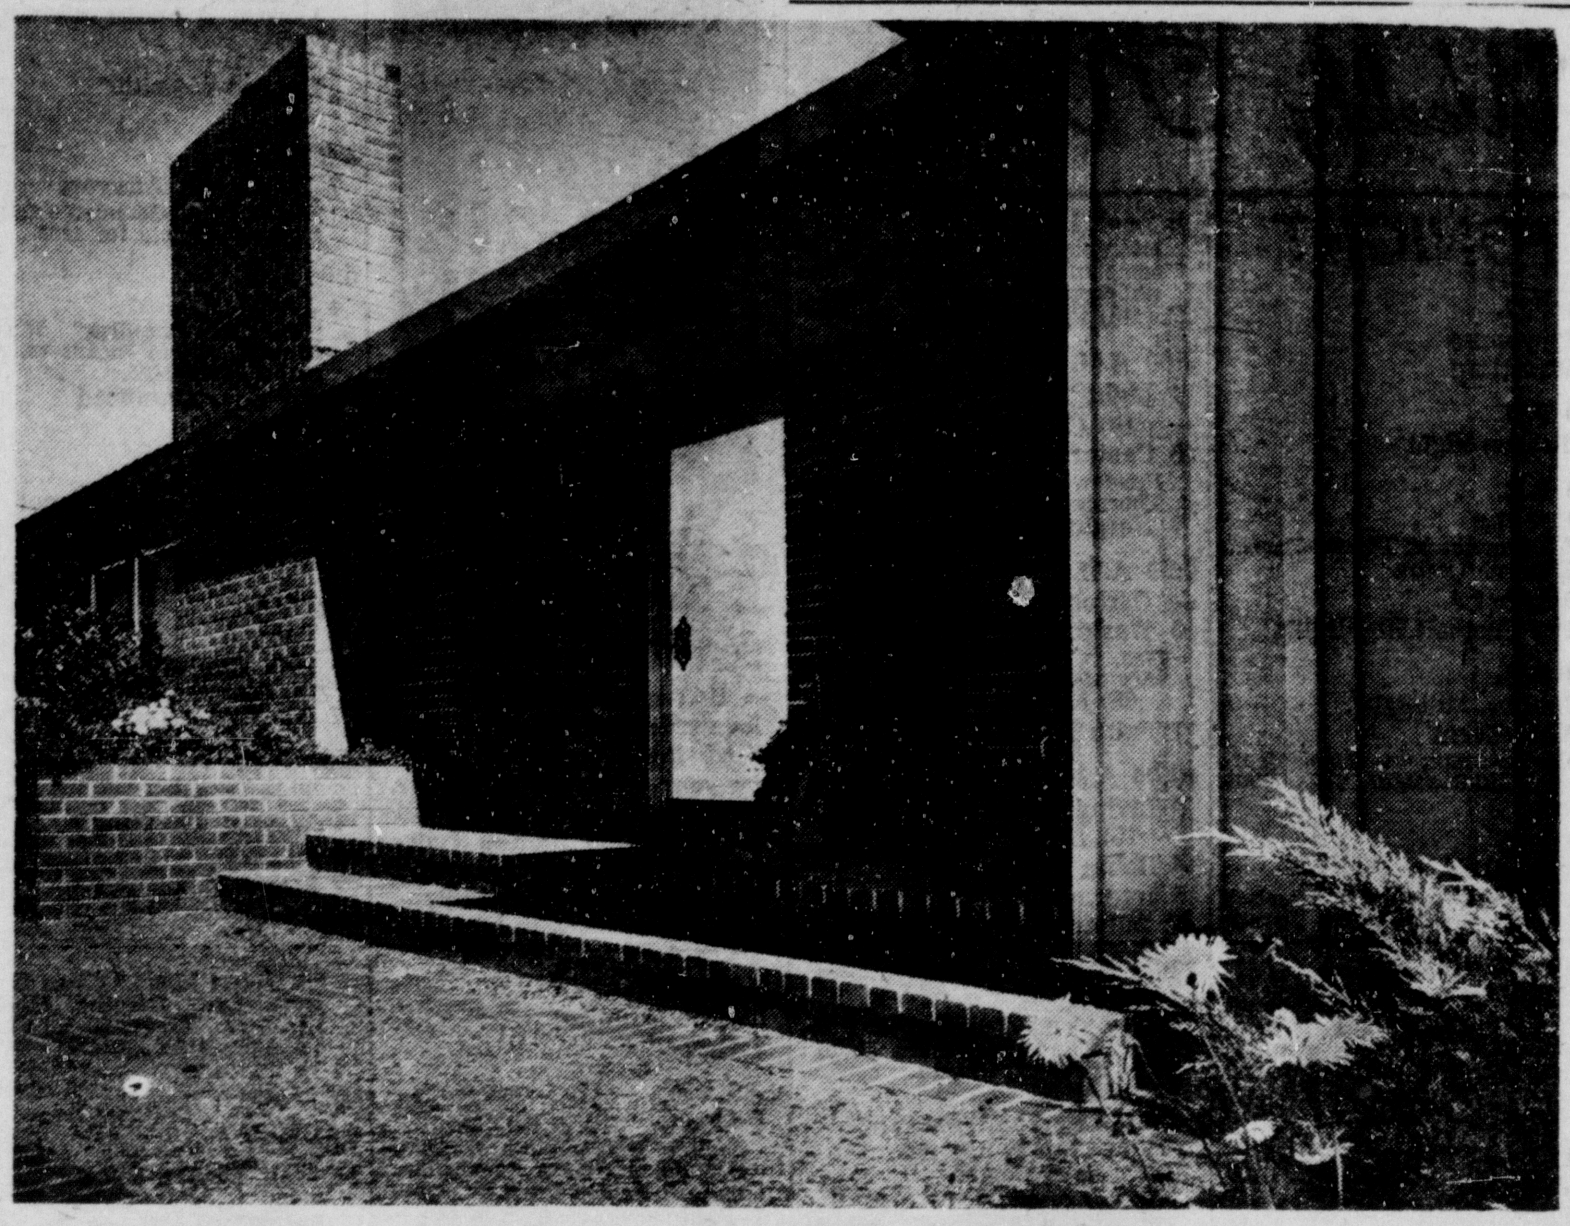
Choose Fireplace Woods For Aroma As Well As Heat

A crackling, snapping fire cheerily blazing in the fireplace and filling the room with a faint aroma of burning wood — what could be more pleasant on long winter evenings? But you must have the right kind of wood.

Oak is one of the best of fireplace woods. It burns slowly, gives off ample heat, and will not throw sparks. Even among the oaks, some species are better than others; white oak is one of the very best.

Also very good are hickory, maple and hornbeam; beech often is rated above oak for fireplace use because of its pleasant aroma. Ash is excellent if only partially seasoned; it burns too quickly when dry.

Logs from apple, plum, pear and cherry trees are preferred by many—the burning wood gives off a delightful fragrance. Fragrant also are pine, spruce and fir logs, but these throw out many sparks. Among the poorest of woods for fireplace use are willow, poplar and elm.



WISE USE OF BRICK can lend distinction to your landscaping, as landscape architects Katy and Paul Steinmetz have demonstrated in these two Ken Molino photos. At top, broad entry steps lend a welcome appearance to the front door. Below, the garden is a striking illustration of how brick, wood, lawn, plants and concrete can be made to work together pleasantly. Brick steps are reflected by brick wall around patio and by the brick raised bed in lower left corner. The spot of lawn at the right helps to cool the aggregate patio.

CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Be sure to give those plants you got for Christmas continued good care. If you expect to transplant them outdoors, give them a chance to taper off a bit on a cool but not cold porch or some other such protected spot before plunging their roots into the cold earth.
- Bareroot roses are also on the planting list for now.
- It's a good time of the year to take care of that mulching, with peat moss or manure, around your plants.
- And New Year's is a good time to resolve to give the yard and garden greater attention during the coming year.

Marin Living

The New Roses For 1962 Will Gladden Lady's Heart

A dozen roses is one way to the lady's heart, but if she loves to garden you might try a new approach. Give her one dozen rose bushes and watch her eyes light up. There must be at least that many worth planting among the new roses for 1962.

Take the All America selections as a starting point. For the first time in our memory, there are not one, two nor even three winners, but four, no less. Any time the choice can only be narrowed to four, there must be a plentiful lot of outstanding roses to choose from.

Kings Ransom is a fitting beauty to start the parade. It's a rich, chrome yellow hybrid tea—one of the best all round roses in years. A sturdy grower, it holds its color even in the hottest weather. The blooms are extra large and perfect for cutting.

Christian Dior is another hybrid tea, and like so many of the new ones, it has that old fashioned rose color — a rich, glowing red. It has the other old fashioned attribute of fragrance, too, which is always nice to come upon in the garden.

The grandiflora winner this year is John S. Armstrong. Deep red and a heavy bloomer, it apparently lives up to an edict laid down by the founder of Armstrong nurseries: "If you find a really good rose, name it after me."

Last but not least among the four All America roses is Golden Slippers—a bushy low growing floribunda that would make a most colorful low hedge. The blooms are red and yellow in the bud stage, and a rich, golden yellow when fully opened.

Looking beyond the All America winners, you'll find an array of topnotch runners-up. There's San Francisco, a brilliant coppery red hybrid tea; Champagne, a buff colored hybrid tea with overtones of pink, described by its creator as resembling pale moselle wine. Americana, another brilliant red, Coronado, a coppery orange, and American Home, a blood red rose with traditional fragrance, are all hybrid teas and all worth growing. Trouble is, so are so many more, and we've only scratched the surface. You could probably give the lady more than a dozen new ones without even trying.
